Ike Invites U. N. To Atom Tests

HugeRocket Launched At Test Center

Four-Stage Device Carries Moon Due To Girdle Globe

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla.—(INS)—A seasoned Army missile team fired another Jupiter-C satellite rocket at Cape Canaveral today in an effort to create a third U. S. moon.

The thunderous launching, promised to put America numerically ahead of the Russians in man-made moons, was conducted under cloudy skies at 12:38 p. m. (EST) after a night of final preparations.

Twin Of Explorer I

The 70-foot Jupiter-C roared skyward carrying a twin of the bullet-shaped Explorer I Army satellite that has circled the earth since January 31 and was joined in space by the Navy Vanguard on March 17.

Approximately two hours of fast checking by radio tracking stations will be required to determine whether the new satellite is actually in an orbit around the earth.

The launching was carried out with clockwork precision despite rain that swept the cape up to an hour before the firing.

Clouds hung at an altitude of 8,000 feet as the silvery-light missile belched flame and struggled upward from its launching platform.

A 100-foot-high splash of orange flame and a roar like the passing of a giant air armada signaled the blastoff.

Almost immediately, the big missile developed a perfect oblong tail of fire that indicated successful ignition.

Then the rocket shot upward, disappearing in less than a minute in the misty bank of clouds.

The mighty roar of the Jupiter-C's 78,000-horsepower, first-stage engine continued for nearly two minutes.

A few minutes before the sleek 71-foot long satellite vehicle was touched off, its bucket shaped nose cone containing the final three stages of the rocket was set spinning.

The Army had timed the firing for 12:30 p. m., and thus lost only eight minutes in the eight-hour countdown.

In Washington, the Army announced the name of the prospective satellite as "Explorer III."

The Defense Department said: "The Jupiter-C was launched from Cape Canavarel at 12:38 p. m. (EST) today, carrying aloft a scientific earth satellite.

"It is too early to determine whether or not the satellite is in orbit."

The Army acted in record time, exactly three weeks after the second Jupiter-C satellite missile just missed creating a second Explorer when the fourth stage of the rocket failed to ignite on March 5.

Russia has sent up only two satellites, Sputniks I and II, last October 4 and November 3, and has announced no new space developments for nearly five months. There have been British reports that the Soviets failed in an attempt to launch a third Sputnik March 4.

U. S. Already Ahead

Actually, America was already ahead in surviving satellites, since Sputnik I crashed into the atmosphere January 4. The U. S. moons may soon be alone in the sky since Sputnik II is expected to fall within a month.

Like the first Explorer, the new 80-inch long Army satellite is equipped with two 108-megacycle transmitters and instruments for counting cosmic rays and meteorites.

The new Explorer, however, contains also a tape recorder that enables it to broadcast at one time cosmic ray readings for an entire circuit of the earth.

The tape recorder is expected to multiply by about 30 times the number of cosmic ray reports from the second satellite, since these are obtained from Explorer I on a continuous basis only when the broadcast is approximately over a receiving station.

The second Explorer was aimed in a southeastern direction for an orbit similar to that of Explorer I—229 to 1,479 miles above the earth.

A total of six U. S. satellite firings, three by the Navy and three by the Army, have been conducted since the moon program got under way in December.

Ouster Of Bulganin By Kremlin Hinted

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

Speculation is mounting in Western circles that a new premier may be installed in Nikolai Bulganin's chair when the Soviet Union's new Parliament convenes tomorrow in Moscow.

Rumors have been cropping up for more than a year that the bearded traveling companion of Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev was on the way out. Some diplomats reason that a session of the Supreme Soviet (Parliament) would be a logical place to open the trapdoor if the 62-year-old veteran Bolshevik has been marked to go.

If Bulganin is dropped, his successor may be Alexei I. Kirichenko, 50-year-old former first secretary of the Ukraine Communist party and long one of Khrushchev's top aides.

Kirichenko, a full member of the party's ruling Presidium, rose to the top echelon last December when Khrushchev made him a member of the party Central Committee's secretariat.

Speculation that a shakeup was in the wind heightened when Moscow radio broadcast a list of Soviet officials attending a dinner for U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold. Bulganin was not mentioned.

The Kremlin itself has given no hint of any shakeup.

Many believe Bulganin may face belated punishment for his reportedly lukewarm stand in last year's "antiparty" purge. There were reports he had not been very firm in support of Khrushchev during the crisis.

Ike's Jobless Pay Increase Plan Rapped

Democrats Assert Extension By U. S. Funds 'Inadequate'

By B. L. LIVINGSTONE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Key House Democrats described as inadequate today President Eisenhower's proposal for a temporary increase in unemployment benefits.

They termed the President's request for a one-year government-aided 50 per cent increase in jobless pay coverage a "minimum" proposal they said does not meet emergency needs of the recession.

At the same time, there was growing evidence that some Democrats were leaning heavily toward packing tax reduction, unemployment compensation and an increase in Social Security benefits into a single bill.

Hearings To Start

This "package" approach to the economic situation was being talked up increasingly among influential House Democrats.

The House Ways and Means Committee scheduled three days of hearings starting tomorrow on the administration jobless pay plan and on twin bills sponsored by Chairman Mills (D-Ark) and Rep. McCormack (Mass), House Democratic leader.

The Mills-McCormack bill calls for federal financing of any additional 16 weeks of jobless pay benefits to workers who have exhausted their benefits under present state laws. It also would fix the rate of additional compensation at no less than half the worker's weekly wage.

President Eisenhower asked Congress to increase the period of added benefits by 50 per cent of that now set by the various state laws. This would amount to as much as 13 additional weeks in states with a top coverage of 26 weeks. The amount of each state's weekly payments would not be changed.

U. S. Would Pay Costs

Cost of the Democratic sponsored plan would be borne by the federal government without state contribution.

The Eisenhower proposal would place federal financing on a loan basis.

Eisenhower said the states should raise their own payment amounts and duration.

His plan would cost an estimated 500 to 600 million dollars.

Compromise Expected On Price Props

WASHINGTON (AP) — Administration delays in announcing price supports for corn kept alive today speculation that President Eisenhower may yet compromise with Congress on farm support levels.

Farm leaders generally expected the President to veto a bill passed last week directing a one-year freeze of price supports at not less than 1957 levels.

But a veto would not necessarily close the door to administration modification of some price support reductions previously ordered by Secretary of Agriculture Benson. In 1956 Eisenhower vetoed a farm bill because of his objections to price support provisions. But in doing so he raised supports of some products above previously announced levels.

Some political observers said such a modification at this time would do much to ease the adverse reaction that a veto might engender in farm areas.

Midwestern Republicans, awaiting Eisenhower's decision, indicated that a veto may cost the administration their votes on foreign aid and reciprocal trade measures.

Oscar Ceremony Given Sad Note By Todd's Death

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — It's Oscar night in Hollywood tonight and the movie capital will roll out its glamor for the award-conferring occasion.

But the somber note of tragedy—death of producer Mike Todd in an airplane crash Saturday—hangs over the festivities.

Todd's widow Elizabeth Taylor is one of the major contenders for the best actress award.

"I don't care whether I win or not," she said last night while flying home from her husband's funeral in Chicago. "I only care what Mike would have thought if I had won."

Seventy of Hollywood's biggest names will appear on the NBC telecast of the award proceedings.

Senate Nears Vote On Huge Highway Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Advocates of billboard control along the new federal superhighway network predicted success today as the Senate reached the voting stage on an antirecession bill to speed up roadbuilding.

The first key roll call was scheduled on an amendment to knock out a provision carrying a potential 200 million dollar bonus to states that agree to regulate billboards on the 41,000-mile interstate system.

Both Senators Neuberger (D-Ore) and Kuchel (R-Calif), cosponsors of the provision, predicted it would be retained by a substantial vote.

There was a possibility the Senate would finish voting on the bill and pass it by tonight. Some legislators, however, thought that the final votes would be put over until tomorrow.

The bill would provide an increase of approximately $1,800,000,000 in federal-state funds over what would be apportioned to the states under present schedules.

Sen. Gore (D-Tenn), the bill's chief sponsor, said that over-all it would make possible a 5½ billion dollar highway program in 1958, although much of this would involve construction in later years. He said it could mean as many as 520,000 new jobs.

Steel Output Still 'Drags'

NEW YORK (AP)—Steel mills are still bumping along the bottom of the recession trough with no sign of even a moderate pickup for the second quarter, Iron Age said today.

The national metalworking weekly said "nearly all the news is still bad. Due to virtual absence of backlogs, production schedules are closely tied to the low incoming order volume."

"The week-to-week fluctuation in steel orders," Iron Age said, "reflects the uncertainty and hand-to-mouth policies of steel users."

Remains Of PWs In German Camp Found In Poland

WARSAW, Poland (AP)—A mass grave containing bodies of 5,000 to 6,000 Allied war prisoners today was reported discovered at Szprotawa, in the former German area of western Poland.

Graves of more than 20,000 Allied troops have been discovered in the same area over the past two years. In the region were two big POW camps, Stalag W2C and Luftlag 3.

Provincial authorities said the dead in the Szprotawa grave included some Canadian and British air force men as well as Italians, French, Moroccans, Senegalese, Russians, Greeks, Poles, Czechs and Yugoslavs.

Authorities said the deaths were not the result of massacres.

Bonn Troops Due To Have Atom Arms

BONN, Germany (AP) — After a violent four-day debate, the West German Bundestag voted last night to let West Germany's troops arm with nuclear weapons as part of Western Europe's defense.

The government's majority in the lower house had made passage a certainty despite bitter opposition.

The motion sponsored by Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's Christian Democrats went through without a roll call. Earlier the Bundestag rejected 269-194 a motion espoused by the Free Democrats and Socialists to bar atomic weapons and NATO missile bases from West Germany.

Socialist Leader Erich Ollenhauer declared the opposition was not through fighting.

The opposition argued that the government plan threatened West Germany with a national emergency and called for further attempts to solve East-West problems by negotiation.

Grain Prices Steady

CHICAGO (AP) — Grain futures prices were mostly about steady to firm at the opening of the Board of Trade today.

Soviet Could Act Alone In Ban On Tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials say privately the Soviet government may make a spectacular move on disarmament soon by announcing — without waiting for U.S. agreement — that it is suspending nuclear weapons tests.

These officials also consider possible a Moscow declaration of intent to stop manufacturing nuclear weapons.

The purpose, they believe, would be pure propaganda, capitalizing on worldwide interest in controlling the nuclear weapons race without submitting to international inspection within the U.S.S.R. The outside world would have no foolproof way of knowing the Soviets were doing what they said they were doing, but millions might believe it.

The Supreme Soviet, the U.S.S.R. Parliament, will open a new session in Moscow tomorrow. Meetings of this body have often provided the forum for major policy statements, usually by Soviet Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev.

The issue of East-West disarmament negotiations, like that of a summit conference, is deadlocked at the moment. Whether and when the deadlock may be broken no one here can say.

Secretary of State Dulles told a news conference that the Soviets are "seeking to exact a terribly high political price as a condition" even to have a summit meeting.

If Soviet terms were accepted, "it would mean that on the way to the summit we would have lost our shirt," he said.

Eisenhower Address Will Be On ABC-TV

Soviet Seen Getting Bid In Proposal

Observers Would See U. S. Nuclear Blasts In Pacific

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today he is asking the United Nations to send foreign observers—probably Russian as well as free world—to U. S. atomic tests scheduled for the Pacific this summer.

Eisenhower made the announcement at a news conference.

He read a statement which said:

"In line with what I said to the press on July 3, 1957, the United States will demonstrate the progress our scientists are achieving in reducing radioactive fallout from nuclear explosions.

UN Would Pick Group

"To this end, for the first time at any test, we are planning to invite the United Nations to select a group of qualified scientific observers to witness at the Pacific proving ground, this summer a large nuclear explosion in which radioactive fallout will be drastically reduced."

This would indicate planned detonation of a hydrogen bomb since it is only with the H-bomb that fallout can be materially reduced.

Asked whether the U. N. delegation would include representatives from Communist countries, Eisenhower replied that he hopes the U. N. will designate the members of its scientific committee on the effects of radiation to attend the Pacific tests.

He noted that member nations of that committee include the Soviet Union and Czechoslovakia in the Communist bloc, as well as the United States, United Kingdom and Canada. There are 15 member nations. The other 10 are Argentina, Australia, Belgium, Brazil, Egypt, France, India, Japan, Mexico and Sweden.

While Eisenhower spoke of tests to be held in the Pacific this summer, the 1958 test series may get started next month.

The Atomic Energy Commission announced in February that a vast danger area from the Eniwetok testing base would become effective April 5.

An earlier AEC announcement last fall described the planned test series as concerned with further development of nuclear weapons with greatly reduced radioactive fallout.

It was not clear from Eisenhower's announcement whether foreign observers would be limited to one specific test — the large nuclear explosion which he mentioned in his statement.

Eisenhower also said the United States will invite, as on occasions in the past, a representative group of U. S. and foreign news media correspondents.

"The United States' scientists have been making progress in reducing radioactive fallout from nuclear explosions in the hope and belief that basic advances in both the peaceful and military uses of nuclear energy will thus be achieved," Eisenhower said. "The advantages to mankind of continued progress in this field are obvious.

"The United States has always publicly announced in advance its nuclear testing programs. We trust that the forthcoming test will provide valuable information to the world."

Sees Recession Ending

At his first news conference in three weeks, Eisenhower also dealt with these other matters:

RECESSION — The President said the bottom of the business slump certainly is close, or possibly even now has been reached.

He expressed the opinion that we are going through the worst of it right now.

Eisenhower again declined to

Food Flown In To 60 Marooned In Tiny Hamlet

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP)—Close to half a ton of food was to be flown in today to a remote sawmill camp in northern New Mexico. About 60 people are stranded there by roads made into bogs by heavy rain.

First word of their plight became known Friday when a man rode a horse 13 miles to the hamlet of Regina. Officials learned of the marooned group only yesterday.

Horseback was almost the only way out. Even heavy road equipment mired in the deep muck.

Cop Killer Placed On FBI's 'Ten Most Wanted Men' List

Eugene Russell McCracken, escaped murderer, has been listed by the FBI as one of its "ten most wanted" fugitives. He replaces suspected slayer Flenoy Payne, caught at Hughes, Ark., March 11.

By JAMES LEE

WASHINGTON — (INS) — The FBI's famed blacklist of "ten most wanted" fugitives spotlights another dangerous criminal today with enrollment of Tennessee jailbreaker Eugene Russell McCracken, convicted killer of a policeman.

McCracken, a 43-year-old felon who bears two devils' head tattoos on his chest, has been sought by law-enforcement authorities since October 20, 1955, when he escaped from the state penitentiary at Nashville, Tenn.

His success in eluding pursuit has caused the FBI to give him "most wanted" status, enlisting the aid of alert citizens throughout the country.

Antibiotic Against Cancer Seen Closer

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Scientists are coming closer to an antibiotic against cancer.

Their search began long ago when doctors noticed that a few cancer patients were actually cured when they had a serious bacterial disease, erysipelas.

The erysipelas germs were producing a chemical — an antibiotic — that fought against the cancer.

Antibiotic means a chemical or drug produced by living organisms. Penicillin and streptomycin are made by tiny molds. They're effective against many kinds of germs, but NOT against cancers.

New steps toward the cancer antibiotics were described today to an American Cancer Society tour for science writers of major U.S. research centers.

Certain bacteria, including erysipelas germs, produce an antibiotic known as a polysaccharide, a complex sugar. These chemicals have had some temporary successes against human cancers. But a drawback is they're quite poisonous or damaging themselves.

But now several new ones have been found which apparently have NO bad effects at all, said Drs. Helga Francis Havas and A. J. Donnelly of the Institute for Cancer Research here.

These were developed in a laborious search of mixed products from various combinations of bacteria, and tests of 126 preparations in more than 10,000 mice.

Some cause complete disappearance of two thirds of cancers planted artifically in mice.

New Surgery Developed For Aiding Heart Cases

DALLAS, Tex.—(AP)—A Chicago surgeon believes a new operation that stimulates the growth of blood vessels on the surface of the heart could save half the persons who now die of heart disease.

"This is our only hope for substantially reducing the heart death toll until we find the answer to atherosclerosis," the fatty "rusting" inside blood vessels regarded as a major cause of heart attacks," said Dr. M. S. Mazel, who helped perfect the operation.

He said the operation, called a cardiopexy, has been used on 124 heart patients at the Edgewater Hospital, Chicago, with 98 per cent success. All of the last 90 patients have lived. Patients have gone back to work within three to four weeks after surgery.

Describing the operation to the American Academy of General Practice, Dr. Mazel said the sac containing the heart is opened and scraped. The surgeon then uses an atomizer to spray magnesium silicate, a white powder, over the heart's surface.

The powder produces a severe inflammatory reaction that goads the heart into growing new blood vessels to feed the original coronary vessels.

The powder is allowed to remain on the heart, Dr. Mazel said. It constantly irritates the surface of the heart into producing new blood vessels but causes no discomfort to the patient.

The additional blood supply increases the patient's chances of surviving a later heart attack.

Dr. Mazel stressed the operation is not "in any sense a panacea for the treatment of all cases of coronary artery disease." But it can be of great help to many, he said.

Three Children Perish In Fire

TAMAQUA, Pa.—(INS)—Three sisters ranging in age from 11 to 16 perished today when they were trapped in their home by smoke and flames.

The victims, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Betz, were identified as Nancy, 16, Wanda, 13, and Sandra, 11.

The parents and seven other children escaped unharmed.

Police said that the girls were asleep in an attic of the two-and-a-half story frame home when the fire broke out.

'Wise Cracks' Mark Opening Of GM Talks

DETROIT (AP) — Behind closed doors the General Motors Corp. and the United Auto Workers are trying to hammer out a new contract that may set a pattern for other industries.

"It looks like the same old table," UAW President Walter P. Reuther, dapperly dressed in brown, said yesterday as he sat down. GM's vice president for personnel, Louis G. Seaton, just as sharp in a gray ensemble, replied, "That's right, Walter, we can't afford new furniture."

Reuther placed his revolutionary profit sharing proposal on the old mahogany table at which the bargaining has gone on at least a decade.

They decided on a policy of negotiating without public statements.

Reuther, who planned to go to Washington, turned over today's negotiation to UAW Vice President Leonard Woodcock, in charge of the union's GM department.

The talks are expected to continue without a major break until the deadline for contract expiration May 29.

speculate as to the timing of any possible anti - recession tax cut. But he said the administration is not going to be stampeded into a tax reduction.

OUTER SPACE— Eisenhower volunteered that the White House is planning to make public a document on the future in outer space, prepared by his scientific advisory committee.

He called it one of the most interesting and fascinating documents he has ever seen, and said he hoped for the widest possible publication.

The President also announced he soon will send to Congress legislative recommendations for civilian control and direction of government activities in the space field.

SPENDING — Eisenhower declined to speculate as to the eventual effect of anti-recession spending on the federal budget. But he said it appears spending will be larger in any event than was anticipated when his budget was prepared.

SUMMIT CONFERENCE — Eisenhower said anew there must be careful preparation for any summit conference with the Russians. Commenting on the Soviet Union's latest message to him regarding a high level conference, Eisenhower said the United States is trying to maintain a position which he thinks is conciliatory. He said that position also attempts to reflect reasonableness, logic and truth.

FOOD—A reporter told Eisenhower that many people actually are going hungry because of the business recession. He asked the President whether it would be possible to provide some of the government's surplus food for such people.

Eisenhower said he agrees that something should be done in cases where people are hungry. But he added the best solution is not always for the problem to be handled from Washington.

Breaks Down At Grave

Liz Taylor Flies Back To Home In Hollywood

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD—(AP)—Liz Taylor, after the ordeal of seeing her husband buried, rallied today toward as near-normal an existence as could be expected.

The beautiful brunette went through a harrowing experience yesterday in Chicago's Waldheim Cemetery. But it seemed to rouse her from the numbness that had hit her Saturday when she heard that producer Mike Todd and three others had perished in a New Mexico plane crash.

A special airliner brought her and a party of 11 back to Hollywood after a funeral that was marked by Liz's near collapse and the outbursts of an estranged brother of Todd.

Carl Goldbogen, a Long Beach, Calif., taxi driver, almost disrupted the ceremony before it got under way.

He stormed at Dick Hanley, Todd's executive secretary, as the funeral party entered the tent that protected the group from the gaze of an estimated 2,500 persons milling in the cemetery.

Another brother of Todd finally quieted Carl and the simple Jewish ceremony went on, interrupted by the sobbing of relatives and two screams by Elizabeth.

The first outburst from the actress came when she entered the tented graveside and saw the casket of her husband for the first time. She screamed and then sobbed: "No, no."

Later she screamed the same words of disbelief. Once, a mourner reported, she tried to prostrate herself on the casket but was restrained by her brother Howard and her doctor.

Then she laid a hand on the bronze coffin and whispered: "I love you, Mike."

On the way to and from the graveside the arms of her brother and the doctor prevented her from falling.

There were no reporters in the tent during the services. First information from inside the tent was that Elizabeth flung herself upon the casket but members of the family said this was not true.

This fugitive has a criminal record dating back more than 30 years. Since childhood, he has played a constant, deadly game of hide-and-seek with the law.

His "make sheet" is studded with accounts of daring escapes after arrests for crimes ranging from housebreaking to homicide.

Though most of McCracken's life in and out of prison has been spent in Tennessee, the FBI believes he may have fled the state after his sensational escape from the heavily-guarded penitentiary more than two years ago.

The fugitive is a skilled coal miner and also has learned the tailoring trade.

He has one tell-tale peculiarity: His left eye tends to "draw" toward the nose when he is excited or angry.

Here are other aids to identification of the current No. 10 man on the "most wanted" list:

Report Says Sputnik Dog Had No Pain

MOSCOW (AP)—Laika, the dog in Sputnik II, proved that animals can survive a ride through cosmic space without apparent harm, a Soviet scientist reported.

The report to the Soviet Academy of Sciences annual meeting gave these observations made from the reports radioed by instruments strapped to the dog:

The dog panted furiously and her heart pounded three times faster than normal as a rocket lifted the space satellite aloft last Nov. 3. As the rocket sped faster and higher, however, the heart beats slowed while breathing reached three or four times the normal rate.

The dog felt no pain, and heart and breathing returned to normal gradually after the satellite got into orbit.

During the week that Laika lived, she was in a state of weightlessness which caused no substantial changes in her physiological functions.

Sputnik II, which has now circled the earth about 2,070 times, is expected to drop into the earth's atmosphere in mid-April and disintegrate.

Rain General In East Area

By The Associated Press

The spell of wet weather in much of the West, South and East continued today. Clear skies again were general over most of the midcontinent.

Thunderstorms rumbled across southern Florida during the night with nearly an inch of rain at Miami, Fort Myers and Palm Beach. Rain fell across wide areas from the lower Mississippi Valley eastward to the Atlantic Coast and northward into the Virginias.

More rain also hit the north Atlantic Coast with snow or a mixture of snow and rain inland from northeastern Ohio into Pennsylvania and New York state. Snow on the ground was to a depth of 16 inches at Philipsburg, Pa., and Elmira, N.Y., including 2 inches during a six-hour period.

New Longer Range Missile Sought By Boeing Company

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Boeing Airplane Co. is "pressing quite hard" on development of a longer range, solid propellant Bomarc interceptor missile, President William E. Allen said today.

"Use of a solid fuel will increase the range," he said.

Bomarc is a long-range pilotless missile designed to intercept and destroy enemy aircraft.

Its officially announced range is at least 250 miles. The range of the new Bomarc, not disclosed has been estimated at up to 600 miles.

Capable of much greater speed and higher altitude than any manned fighter plane, the Bomarc has been described by the Air Force as one of the most important weapons of the Air Defense Command.

The Bomarc is fired vertically into the air from a launching platform.

It uses a liquid fuel rocket engine for takeoff power. Once the missile levels off, twin ramjet engines power it for supersonic cruising on a collision course with its target.

Suits Totaling $448,720 Filed Against Bill Lias

WHEELING (AP) — Suits totaling about $448,730 have been filed in U. S. District Court here against William G. (Big Bill) Lias to heap additional financial trouble on the one-time Wheeling underworld figure.

Denise Margiotti, widow of the late Pittsburgh attorney, Charles J. Margiotti, sued Lias for $288,630 on behalf of her husband's estate for legal fees she contends the former Wheeling Downs owner has not paid.

Mrs. Margiotti also filed suit against Lias; his wife Alice; Lias' brother John; the couple as trustees for their daughter, Antionette, and the Lias' son George. The separate action asked $70,000.

James M. Barnes and Thurman Hill, Washington attorneys, also filed suits in the federal court for Northern West Virginia for legal fees they said have been paid in handling Lias' federal tax cases, deportation proceedings and disposal of stock in several corporations.

Barnes and Hill are seeking judgment against Lias and his family for $90,100.

Mrs. Margiotti recently sued Lias in U. S. District Court at Fairmont.

Guides In D.C. Need Licenses

WASHINGTON (AP) — District of Columbia Commissioners have agreed to license guides living outside the metropolitan Washington area to conduct sightseeing trips originating outside the District and its suburbs.

Congress members from the Baltimore area had asked that the action be taken.

Under the new regulation, non-resident guides may conduct the tours if they pass an examination, pay a $10 license fee and meet other eligiblity requirements.

Wall Street Hears

NEW YORK — (INS) — Wall Street Hears:

Coppers and oils — two classic inflation hedges — played the biggest part in routing the "Blue Monday" jinx this week, proving anything can happen in a recession . . .

Talk that many of the steels and one or two of the motors won't cover their first quarter dividends . . .

Same will be true of Diamond Alkali, where sales are off about 15 per cent from a year ago. Company paid a first quarter dividend of 45 cents two weeks ago . . .

Earnings of Container Corp. this year should approximate the $1.36 a share earned in 1957 with a pickup in the second half, predicts Ed. Tabell of Walston & Co. . . .

American Cyanamid, says A. M. Kidder & Co. is among those companies which should experience no appreciable loss in earnings this year, and could show an increase from last year's profit of $2.40 . . .

Approval in House seen certain for $4 billion aid to agricultural exports . . .

The 132 new 1958 highs Monday was the longest list of peaks so far this year . . .

For a substantial move out of present trading area says Arthur W. Bullock at Paine, Webber, increased in such groups as the chemicals, oils, motors and steels is needed, and so far this has not appeared . . .

Loew's may become the first major motion picture company to produce live television shows.

The outlook for bonds and long dividend record common shares is still favorably influenced by the long-term downtrend in money rates . . .

Market comment — Shearson, Hammill & Co.:

". . . The avoidance of extremes of pessimision and and a policy of using periods of market weakness to accumulate cyclical shares of good quality should bring handsome rewards in the coming year."

Musicians Union Elects Tomorrow

Cumberland Local 787, American Federation of Musicians, will hold its annual election of officers and executive board members today at a 7:30 p. m. meeting in the Central Labor Temple, South Liberty Street.

James E. Andrews, secretary, said two additional offices must be filled at this election, since the local recently amended by-laws to create the office of business agent and a separate office of treasurer.

Andrews said it is important that every area member of the Musicians' Protective Union attend.

Second Plow Hitching Demonstration Planned

A second plow hitching demonstration in Allegany County tomorrow will be conducted at 2 p.m. on the Glenn Savage Dairy farm of James Robinson near Mt. Savage, according to County Agent Joseph M. Steger.

Guy W. Gienger, agricultural engineer at the University of Maryland, will stage the first Thursday demonstration at 9:30 a.m. on the Marshall Mann farm near Piney Plains.

Carpets Keep New Look

With proper care wall to wall carpeting will retain the new look.

Correct cleaning methods have seemingly been a mystery and controversial even to carpet manufacturers. After much research a product is on the market that cleans and fluffs up beat down carpet paths plus removal of spots thereby maintaining the new look. The textile engineer of a large carpet mill says — "it's the best we've found."

The product is Blue Lustre. It is easily applied with a long handle brush. One half gallon of Blue Lustre concentrate cleans three 9 x 12 rugs.

Ike Proposal Aid To Marylanders

BALTIMORE (AP)—President Eisenhower's proposal to Congress on jobless benefits would mean extra money for about 3,800 Marylanders if it were law right now.

The President's recommendation would increase by 50 per cent the number of weeks unemployed workers could draw payments. This would boost Maryland's 26-week maximum to 39 weeks.

Robert B. Kimble, director of the Employment Security Department, said 8,810 of the state's unemployed — 7.7 per cent of a 115,000 total — had exhausted their benefits as of Feb. 28. Those are the persons who would receive federal money for the additional 13 weeks under terms of Eisenhower's program.

Kimble said there is no legal bar to Maryland's participation in the plan as long as he is willing to serve as agent for handling the federal funds. He said he agreed to do so — if the program should become law — when the U. S Bureau of Employment Security contacted him on the question a week or so ago.

Hidden Power

MANY OF US have long thought of organized crime as something apart from the "normal" operations of our society. The grim truth, of course, is that it has for many years been eating away at the whole fabric, until now it threatens to devour large portions of it. So much attention is paid these days to juvenile marauding against persons and property that it is forgotten how small a dent this mounting assault makes in terms of dollars and power. No one would wish to minimize the terrible physical insecurity this juvenile crime introduces into our national life. Yet there is still another kind of insecurity in the continued growth of big-scale, organized crime. And, except at sporadic intervals, we hear all too little about it.

A U. S. ATTORNEY in New York, Paul W. Williams, made a speech on the subject in Brooklyn recently that deserves notice. He called big crime in America a second government, invisible but adding steadily to its wealth and power. Its two principal arms are in New York and Chicago. Its leaders are major criminals. Its allies include public officials corrupted by the lure of money, and "short-sighted business and labor leaders," says Williams. The really shattering point he makes is not that this is a vicious empire built on greed and murder. It is that the leaders of this invisible government use their money and power increasingly to undermine the legitimate business and political affairs of this nation. As is well known, but never said enough, they infiltrate legitimate businesses and unions. This heightens their power and gives them the cover of respectability. It adds to their leverage in politics and allows them to buy elected officials and law enforcement agents.

EVIDENT TO US all is the danger if this process of spreading power and influence should not be halted and reversed. Williams fears to visualize the consequences if organized crime gains in the next 20 years as it has from 1920 to 1958. He believes the peril is of such magnitude that a great combined effort is needed from Congress, with new laws and more investigations, from the federal law enforcement agencies, from the state and local authorities, the press and the public itself. Williams makes painful good sense. One way or another, we are all paying tribute to the ruthless illegal government by criminals. If we could be made to understand exactly what this "crime tax" is, then perhaps we —the people—would stir in earnest, and the great combined cleanup would begin. No one elected these criminals who are our second governors. They installed themselves by force. But we can throw them out if we really want.

A Child's Question

NOT LONG AGO a man writing a letter to the editor reported a chat with his six-year-old son on the subject of the figure "120" on the car speedometer. First the lad asked why his father didn't go up to 120. Told that he'd be jailed if he did, the boy wanted know it was was the fate of all who hit 120. Since the answer was yes, his next question, following rigid child logic, was why ha,e such a number on the dial at all. Father couldn't answer. But the motormakers have a standard reply: Those fantastic figures represent reserve power every driver needs for passing and for manuevering in countless other touchy, difficult spots. This may well be so. Let the reserve power be there as a safety factor. But couldn't the manufacturers remove the superfigures from the speedometer face? They're an open invitation to thrill-seekers. They can even beckon to conservative drivers who might respond to the surge of that usually untapped power. The excitement isn't nearly so great when you don't know exactly how daring you're being. It's a thought for Detroit.

ALL DRESSED up and no place to go is a disappointing situation, all right. But it certainly does save money.

Knight Has Strong Demo Opposition

SACRAMENTO, Cal. — Early soundings of public opinion show Representative Claire Engle, Democrat, with surprising strength against his practically certain Republican opposition, Governor Goodwin Knight, for the U. S. Senate.

The word is surprising because Engle is making his first statewide race and Knight has spent an extremely active decade in state politics, as Governor for five years and Lieutenant Governor before that.

In some soundings Engle even leads by a slight margin, though they realize also his greatest problem, which is that so many voters say they do not know him personally.

Engle will, however, have some advantage over Knight. The liberal Congressman is in complete rapport with the strong Democrat at the head of the ticket, Attorney General Pat Brown. They will work together and be in a position to capitalize on the Democratic trend so apparent as of now in the nation.

NO SUCH sympathy, personal or political, exists between Knight and Senator William F. Knowland, now formally in the race for Governor. Knight felt that he could have been re-elected Governor and he was deeply unhappy when pressures from party leaders and warnings he would not be financed in that effort forced him to switch to the Senate race.

Knight is morosely certain also that Knowland is batting on a sticky wicket with the right-to-work issue to which the Senator maintains his commitment. Knight is on record with a promise as Governor to veto such legislation. He hopes to keep the substantial labor support he thus gained by sticking to that position.

TIME WAS when Californians expected and indeed seemed to prefer rugged individualism in their politics. But their unique cross-filing system has been badly battered and is on its way out. Since Democrats hold the advantage in party registration, this is to their interest generally.

The recession will sharpen the party aspect of all the fall elections, a trend Congressional Democrats are trying to harden by means of their own program to combat it. Since there were 449,000 unemployed Californians last month, more unemployed than at any time in the last eight years, the recession seems certain to be a factor here.

The state's phenomenal growth is again shown in the fact that even that large number constitutes only 7.7 per cent of the labor force.

THE PERSONAL ambitions of the leading California politicians also heat up the contests here. Vice President Nixon, faced with a choice between possible loss of the state to Democrats and possible strengthening of a Presidential rival, Senator Knowland, elected the second hazard.

It is a decision the political trade thought wise, as he would certainly be weakened in the nominating convention and the election of 1960 if his state is in the hands of the opposition.

On the Democratic side it is beginning to dawn on party liberals that Attorney General Brown, if elected, will give them an alternative to Senator John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, whose liberalism they distrust.

Senator Kennedy is paving the way for a Catholic on the national ticket with a frank, far-reaching campaign. Brown, also a Catholic, was recently asked if he thought a Californian might be on a national ticket in 1960. His jovial answer: "Just say I smiled modestly."

America In High Gear, Reporter Finds

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (NEA) — The half dozen launchings scheduled at the Air Force missile test center here for the last week in March give evidence of the stepped-up scale of America's space program.

Listed for countdown are an Air Force Intercontinental Atlas, an Army Jupiter C with Explorer III satellite, an Air Force intermediate range Thor, two Bomarcs, a Snark and miscellaneous Matadors. No date has yet been set for the Navy's next Vanguard firing with satellite.

A two-day tour of installations at Patrick Air Force Base and its auxiliary installations 18 miles to the north on the cape, shows what a big business it has become.

Government and missile contractors have 400 million dollars invested here. Its operational budget is close to 100 millions a year — and it is growing.

THE BASE NOW has 16,000 personnel — military, Civil Service and civilian contractor. The figure will be 18,000 in a year.

The base operates 17 hours a day. Contractors are allowed all the overtime they need.

"Hundreds"—the exact number isn't revealed—but literally hundreds of missiles have been fired here since the base was opened in 1950 as a joint proving ground for the three services. Its 5,000-mile range is now extended to Ascension Island in the South Atlantic.

The test center has a normal firing routine of a missile a day. It has actually fired three in one day.

The three launching areas on the two ocean-front sides of the triangular cape now have 20 launching pads. There is room to build more as needed.

Each complex—launching platform, gantry service towers (as high as 12-story buildings) and control blockhouse—represents a cost of up to four million dollars apiece.

THESE ARE missiles launched from the ground. Harbor facilities where the Navy's Polaris missile can be tested are now under construction.

Air-to-air and ground-to-ground missiles will not be tested here. A satellite to orbit north and south around the poles could not be launched here under present ground safety rules. Missiles to reach the moon might be difficult to launch from the Cape because of earth rotation factors.

But the first of everything else would probably have to be tested here, says the base commander, Maj. Gen. Donald N. Yates. This will include rocket engines with thrust of up to a million pounds, now being developed.

Half-ton and one-ton satellites could be tested here, says General Yates. The United States has the components with which to do it. Scientists are now arguing about how to combine them for best results.

PUBLIC misconceptions have grown up about what goes on here, General Yates believes. Test firings that explode seem to get the most publicity. This gives the whole U. S. missile program a black eye.

The test center considers a launching successful if it yields the scientific data desired—even if the missile blows up. Often these data are obtained in the first few seconds or minutes of flight.

Another factor frequently forgotten is that these are research missiles. They are not operational weapons suitable for combat use.

When a missile is delivered here for testing, it has to be modified. Instead of carrying a warhead, it is loaded with an equivalent weight of complicated electronic gear. This is what costs so much and takes so much time to ready.

Missiles are not considered operational until they have been fully tested by the builder and are ready to turn over to troops for training and firing in the field. Of some 35 U. S. missiles now under development not more than half a dozen in the first family can be considered fully operational.

Still under development is a second family of more complicated missiles including the Bull Goose, Titan, Pershing, Polaris and Minute Man, to be tested here in the future.

Glancing Sideways

NEW YORK—The lady from North Dakota came in only three minutes tardy, which is certainly being as close to on time as one could reasonably expect, rained small parcels in a puddle around her seat on the banquette, fluffed back her mink cape and sighed.

"Now, then," she said, "I've done it. I've shopped on the most fascinating street in New York. I know Fifth Avenue from 46th Street to 57th Street."

"BUT YOU DON'T know the most fascinating street in New York," I said. "You haven't been on it. Fifth Avenue is an elegant facade, a treasure house of goods and jewels, a colorful and restless bazar in the best world manner. But it is not the most fascinating street in New York.

"That would be 14th Street, river to river. This is a thin slice of 19 nations, a hodge-podge of jumbled shops, drinkeries, junk emporia, bargain counters, small but toothsome bakeries raucous record shops, hide-away theatres, the garrets of excellent artists, the warrens of accredited dentists who must know at least three languages, a place where the multi-tiered petticoat you bought for $25 on Fifth Avenue is offered to you, authentic label and all, for $5.66."

"I don't believe it," she said. "Not all of it."

"All right," I said. "Let's go to your hotel and get you a real coat, long and warm, and we'll taxi to the East River entrance and walk the street all the way to the Hudson River. Put on sensible shoes, too, while you're at it."

WE GOT OUT of the cab at the East River and started slowly. We went by the towering housing project on the right and the initialed avenues on the left. There was Avenue A, which once inspired a show: "The Belle of Avenue A." On it, too, as I showed her, lives a famed designer of houses. We passed Avenue B and even C and presently came to First Avenue.

There I showed her a dentist who speaks four languages well enough to conduct his profession, plus a seamstress, in the old-fashioned sense, before whose cracked and paint-crazed door Rolls-Royces often park.

At Second Avenue I showed her the Labor Temple where lecturers on obscure lands, an off-Broadway show, impasisoned labor leaders and lantern-slide medical who-are-theys all talk at once, but in different suites.

Just below it was a small bakery of which Paris would be proud. Its specialty: fat, round doughnuts with centers crammed with raspberry jam. The price: six for 25 cents.

Then came the little ragged string of shops: lingeries, shirts, hose, shoes, hats, foundations and even just ribbons, ribbons in thousands of colors and widths. In time we came to Klein's, that fabulous, sprawling store that offers high-priced evening gowns, suits, furs, anything, at cut-to-the-bone prices. An evening gown, with label, duplicating one she saw for $175 on Fifth Avenue, was $63,69.

UNION SQUARE is the playground for Klein's, and on Union Square there is a neglected, filthy, soiled statue of Thomas Jefferson inscribed with one of his admonitions to the citizens of his then young nation. Now we came to the blocks of shops,, cafes, liquor stores, delicatessens and jumble. Men's lace-front evening shirts, which are $35 uptown, are $7.99 here, perhaps a little finger-smudged, but for 35 cents one can be washed and match its $35 blood brother from Fifth Avenue and the East 50's.

Up there, behind those long, etched windows lives David Lax, one of the best of the modern painters. He paints no copies of features when he does a portrait. He paints what he sees behind the features of a person. He once painted identical twins, five years old. One looked a little weary, her face set in fixed lines, the other looked amorphous and dismayed.

"Madame," he said, "one daughter has a very old soul that has been on earth many times in many centuries. The other is almost a totally new soul, unformed by time and circumstances. If you want them to look alike on canvas, come back in 2,000 years. They just may match up then." His fee: enormous, for any painting, and his work is in museums.

SPANISH groceries, reeking of oil, gypsy encampments in vacant stores, tattered apartment houses, the West side, the smell of the Hudson, the river of humanity on the sidewalks, with bales and bundles and babies.

And then the docks of the West Side, the liners in, the cranes moving cargoes. A keen, small wind beats around these floating ships and around our ears. We hail a cab and go back to her hotel.

She agrees it is the most fascinating street in New York.

Stout Fella, Gracie Fields

NEW YORK — Miss Gracie Fields, the fireball with English on it, is back in the U. S. to 'av at it' again. Meaning television.

Actually, Gracie is retired. Has been for nearly 40 years.

"I've been retirin' ever since I took the stage," she says, dropping her cockney accent in deference to the subject. "But then somebody always sends me some contract or other, and I can't read the small print, so—" she takes a quick swipe at her spectacles with a hanky—"I always find myself back at my knittin'."

SO'S NOT TO appear utterly fribberish at the age of 60, Gracie inserts that her manager-husband does read the fine print. "He's the brains. I'm the daft one. I think that's good, my dear, don't you?

"It keeps a marriage from getting too scholastic."

One of the delectable Lancashire comedienne's last flings at television in America was disastrous: not professionally, but personally.

During an appearance on the "Ed Sullivan Show" a few years ago, she lost a ring worth 12,000 pounds (around $35,000) which she describes as her "old age security" and also a quite large, "important hunk of stone."

GRACIE WAS quite broken up. She imagines the stone was, too, otherwise, it would have been recognized by now.

The loss taught her a lesson she already knew: "Don't make a god of any possession. Or you'll lose it. With that ring, I was so scared of losing it, I couldn't possibly not 'av—you know what I mean?

"I feel the same way about houses. I love homes. I came from a family in Rochdale, Lancashire, where every time my father got a six-penny raise in pay, we'd move to a better home up the block."

GRACIE caught the disease. Thirty years ago, at the beginning of what is called "the Gracie Fields era in the British theater," she had five residences: In Italy, California, Brighton and London in England, and the Isle of Capri. Now she has only the Capri house—a former prison ("we have the most delightful cells for guests") — and subconsciously, she claims, has avoided making it elegant.

"I'm scared, sort of, to have anything too elegant. Every time I have had somethin' elegant, life has just sort of whipped me out of it."

"Never make a god of anything less than God, and you're "less likely to lose it."

AT ONE TIME, and perhaps still, the highest-paid performer in England, she will play a small role in CBS-DuPont's "Show of the Month" tomorrow night. Then she flies to Hollywood to star in "Mrs. 'arris Goes to Paris" on "Studio One."

Remembering her philosophy, Gracie concludes:

"Mrs. 'arris drops her aiches in Paris. Lor, 'n I 'ope I don't drop anything more than 'er."

Reporter's Notebook

NEW YORK—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

That about 75 per cent of America's public school principals now have the authority to spank their pupils, but most spare the rod.

That most mama elephants rarely give birth to twins, and who can blame them?

That life does add up. At 70, for example, you'll have eaten 75,000 meals and slept about 200,000 hours.

Washington Scene

WASHINGTON — We were having another of our snowstorms the other day when Mr. C. W. "Bill" Snedden, of Alaska, came in. He said he found our Washington weather a little rigorous for a man used to the more clement climate of Fairbanks, but that he was prepared to endure hardship for the good of the cause.

The "cause," naturally, is statehood for Alaska. Mr. Snedden is prepared not only to brave our winter, but our spring and summer, if necessary, to keep crowding the legislative and executive branches of government for action on the procrastinated project.

He is not the only Alaskan businessman who is giving his own time and money for statehood. Washington is full of them. You can hardly mush into the Capitol or the Department of Interior these days without bumping into one or more.

Many remain here for weeks at a time, running up tremendous bills, which they can't charge off to anything, or anybody else. They are the most dedicated non-governmental men this community has seen in a long time.

THE LONG sojourn in our midst represents an especial sacrifice on the part of Mr. Snedden because he is a newspaper publisher. This is an avocation — I have frequently been informed on authority I do not care to question—that calls for sticking on the job. But he is directing the destinies of his Fairbanks News-Miner by telephone—and Washington-to-Fairbanks is something more than a dime call.

I have heard many interpretations of the motivations behind the opposition to Alaskan statehood, but Mr. Snedden and his fellow Alaskans inform me that the real hard core of opposition is motivated by reasons I have not heard advanced too frequently.

They aver that the strongest opposition to the Deep North comes from the Deep South. They explain this seeming paradox in this wise: they say that Alaska is well-integrated, and that the Southern Congressmen are afraid that statehood will mean one more state congressional delegation for civil rights.

The Alaskans declare that the most-publicized argument against Alaskan statehood, namely that the territory is overwhelmingly Democratic, and would send two more Democrats to the Senate, is largely hogwash. Publisher Snedden, who is a Republican, is ready to bet that if Alaska became a state its very first balloting would elect at least one GOP Senator.

THE MAJORITY of potential Alaskan voters, Snedden declared, resent existing conditions and they would vote "against," rather than "for." He said they would vote against the party they deemed most responsible for their plight, and would be torn as to which they blamed the most—the democratically-controlled Congress or the Republican Administration.

He said that Congress was currently marked as the No. 1 villain, because the Administration's Secretary of the Interior, Fred A. Seaton, is a "pillar of strength for our cause."

I asked the man from Fairbanks how he dressed away up there. He fingered his middleweight overcoat and said: "Just the way I'm dressed now. But I wish I had a heavier one for this Washington weather." His coat was much lighter than mine—which is the one I use for trips to Florida.

Snedden said that one of the most bitter complaints of Alaskan businessmen is that any shipment for Alaska must clear through a U. S. port. He buys most of his newsprint in Powell River, British Columbia, but it has to be detoured away south to Seattle, to be loaded into an American bottom.

He has to pay $5.42 a ton to dock it in Seattle, and another $5.42 to load it again. This, with the transportation detour, makes his newsprint cost him an extra $17.41 a ton.

He says that most other Alaskan businessmen are similarly penalized.

Inspector Loses Post In District

WASHINGTON (AP) — District Commissioners have discharged Milton E. Abels, a 38-year-old building inspector accused of attempting to shake down a Northwest Washington rooming house operator.

Abels was arrested in January and later held for grand jury action on charges of accepting $200 from the rooming house operator for a rooming house permit.

The commission said yesterday Abels was under probationary employment with the District government and that his discharge "is taken in the best interests" of the city.

W. Virginia Notes Increase In New Jobless Pay Claims

CHARLESTON (AP) — The Department of Employment Security has reported an increase of 469 in new unemployment benefit claims filed with it last week.

Director Henry L. Ash explained, however, that "a good many of those increased claims have been for only partial unemployment."

Unemployment benefit claims filed in the state last week totaled 5,417, which was an upturn after two straight weeks of decreasing claims.

All claims, however, including continued claims, totaled 32,110 last week. That figure was 524 claims less than the previous week.

The total number of weeks of unemployment claimed last week was 49,027, a drop of 2,138.

Ash thought the recent statistics indicated an increase in partial unemployment but perhaps also a decrease in total unemployment.

Benefit payments totaled $1,045,691, an increase of $35,755 from the previous week. The balance in the unemployment compensation fund continued downward, dropping $976,652 to $60,725,847.

Pullen Lauds U. S. Method For Schools

European System Hit By Maryland Education Chief

BALTIMORE (AP) — "What we are striving for in our public schools is a decent minimum," the State superintendent of public schools said yesterday.

Dr. Thomas G. Pullen Jr. criticized the arguments of those who compare American schools with European ones. He told the Baltimore Rotary Club that school authorities of Europe "attempt to play God" by selecting leaders at the age of 12 or 13 and then charting the educational lives and vocations of those children.

"This," he said, "is the antitheses of democratic education. What we are striving for is a decent minimum, decent living, not only in knowledge but in the way we conduct our lives."

If the term quality in American education is intended to mean the training of an intellectually elite group, Dr. Pullen said, then this is not in the American tradition.

He added that he is in favor of the highest development of one's intellectual capacities on any level, but it must be done in the democratic tradition and not for the purpose of setting one group apart from all others.

Dr. Pullen said in his opinion all scholarships should be abolished. He said they are fundamentally charitable and wrong in a democratic society.

He explained he favored lowering the cost of all higher education so students with any "get up and go" would be able to attend college.

Todd Showed Movies How To Do It

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Mike Todd shook up Hollywood as it has never been shaken up before.

At a time when many feared motion pictures would follow vaudeville into the grave, Todd came along to point the way to salvation.

He pioneered the wide screen. He sold his "Arpund the World in 80 Days" with a hoopla that harked back to his carnival beginnings. Because of this, and because it is top-notch entertainment, the movie may well be the greatest moneymaker of all time. He demonstrated there is still a vast audience for the right kind of movies.

And, as his crowning achievement, he captured Hollywood's great beauty, Elizabeth Taylor, for his bride.

Hollywood at first viewed Todd with derision. He was regarded as a blustery graduate of peep shows and was scarcely invited into the better homes. At his death, he was on an equal basis with the kings and queens of the town.

It was Todd's nature that he had to find his way alone. He was one of the developers of Cinerama. But he was impatient with the travelogue limitations of that medium — and with the brass-heavy firm. He sold out.

He developed his own wide screen process. Todd-AO, and helped screen "Oklahoma!" But again he found himself with too many partners and got out. It looked as if Todd could never stick with a good thing.

But he had his own vision, and only he could accomplish it. That was "Around the World in 80 Days."

Todd at full steam was a marvel to behold. Not long ago, I spent a couple of hours with him at his studio office, in his car and in his hotel suite.

He sat by the window of his office, facing half a dozen employes. He shot orders at them between phone calls. In a voice that almost shook the room, he spoke to Fernandel in France, Henry J. Kaiser in Hawaii and business associates in New York. He stopped now and then to shout out the window to Sam Goldwyn, Gregory Peck and others who were walking by.

During the ride out Sunset Boulevard he told of the millions that were coming in from his movie. He said one of his bigest thrills was catching the Saturday morning showings he arranged for poor children. The onetime poor kid from Minneapolis cautioned me not to print anything about it, lest he be considered going soft.

While he shaved and showered in his hotel suite, Todd talked about the future. He was enthused about doing "Don Quixote" and said he had gone back to the Cervantes original to lick the story. He was going to make two other films — one the life of Arturo Toscanini, which would unfold the world of opera on the screen.

"Then I'll quit and enjoy life with Liz and the kids," he said.

The word "hygiene" comes from the goddess of health in Greek mythology.

Jurist Lifts Picture Ban In Pittsburgh

"Misunderstanding" Caused Decree, He Tells Cameramen

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Photographers were allowed to take photos in the corridors and anterooms of Allegheny County Criminal Court again today after a short-lived ban against such pictures.

President Judge William H. McNaugher banned photo taking in the corridors and anterooms yesterday. Photographers and newsmen later told the judge no such order had ever been in effect before.

Judge McNaugher then talked to court officials and announced he had rescinded his order. He said his order had stemmed from a misunderstanding.

A ban against taking photos in courtrooms is still in effect. Two weeks ago photographers were permitted to take photos of a murder trial by standing in a corridor and focusing their cameras through an open door and a window. This, however, was halted by Judge McNaugher on orders of Chief Justice Charles A. Jones of the State Supreme Court.

What Is That "Old Time Religion"?

How far back do we want to go to arrive at what the famous Negro spiritual refers to as "that old time religion"?

We in the Episcopal Church believe that the place to start is not at the Reformation or at any other intermediate spot in Christianity's almost 2,000 year history. The place to begin is at the religion of the primitive church as laid down by our Lord, His Apostles and the early Church Fathers.

The Apostles' Creed refers to it as "The Holy Catholic Church"—the original Christian Church, united, undivided, with a single faith, a single practice.

As we study church history, it seems to us that the Episcopal Church and its nationally independent associates in the world-wide communion of Anglicans (whose faith and practice stem from the very ancient Church of England) have retained closest allegiance to the faith and practice of the early church.

We hold that everything necessary to salvation is to be found in Holy Scripture, and that the Church was founded by our Lord. We also hold that the Church compiled the Holy Bible as a living record of God's will for us, and that our worship of God should be done with beauty and with the congregation actively taking part. Visit the Episcopal Church near you at your earliest opportunity. A warm welcome awaits you.

Rep. Byrd Of West Va. Opposes Summit Parley

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Byrd (D-WVa) told the House today that "there is something going on in the field of diplomatic activity that warrants vigilance and inquiry."

Byrd, a member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, has expressed opposition to further summit parleys "until the Soviets have redeemed their first summit conference pledges."

Byrd said that "for public consumption, the story is that we are holding firm for proofs - positive of Soviet deeds - for - peace before agreeing to a summit meeting. Such a policy has the unquestioned support of American opinion."

But, Byrd declared, "in view of the inspired State Department 'news' releases finding their way into the public print, one might go so far as to suggest that an understanding has been reached already and that the finishing touches are being applied to the package deal."

Jobless Pay Plan Headed For Criticism

President's Idea Would Extend Pay For Unemployed

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — This is an A-B-C on President Eisenhower's proposal—sent to Congress yesterday—to extend the jobless pay of people who have used up all the unemployment insurance they're entitled to.

He walked a tightrope to figure this one out. He's bound to run into a fight.

The number of weeks states pay benefits to their unemployed vary; so do the payments.

To relieve the hardship on the many thousands who have used or will use up their maximum number of weeks, Eisenhower proposes extending the number of weeks for them in all states by 50 per cent.

For example: a man who drew $25 a week in a state with a maximum of 26 weeks, would, if he had used up his 26 weeks, continue to draw $25 for another 13 weeks.

Eisenhower asked Congress to vote 600 million dollars for this, with the program to last until April 1, 1959. Complications begin right here. To understand why, look at the system as it works now:

Employers now, to provide money for the insurance fund, pay a tax on the first $3,000 of their employes' wages. The federal tax is three tenths of 1 per cent. The state tax varies by states, from practically zero up to 2.7 per cent.

The federal government uses its tax to administer the program. But the tax each state collects goes into its own individual fund. It draws on its fund to pay benefits to its own jobless people.

The 600 million dollars—as outlined by the administration — would not be a gift to the states but a loan. Eisenhower suggests that the states enter into agreements with the federal government to get from the special fund what they need to extend the UI payments of those unemployed who have exhausted their benefits.

But, if the states don't want to agree, then Eisenhower suggests the federal government set up its own machinery in those unwilling states and draw on the 600 millions to extend the payments anyhow.

How would it be paid back? Eisenhower suggests this:

If, at the end of four years a state on its own had not paid back what the federal government had put up, then the federal tax on its employers would go up until full repayment was made.

But a state, to save its employers from the higher tax, could do this:

Its legislature—any time before those four years were up—could meet and vote to repay the federal government either out of that state's own treasury or out of its unemployment insurance reserve fund.

Since employers almost certainly fight any added tax on themselves, the natural thing for them to do would be to pressure their state legislatures to make the repayment one way or the other.

Employer groups likewise may try to pressure Congress not to approve Eisenhower's plan from the start.

Many states now have so much money in their reserve funds that they could afford—if they wanted to—to extend their weeks of jobless pay.

WILL DEFEND DAM—State Supreme Court Judge Jesse W. Carter is shown in the corridor of his office in San Francisco as he told reporters he would use "high powered rifles" if necessary to defend his private fish and irrigation dam. The dam is located on his vast estate in the Sleepy Holly section of San Anselmo, Calif. The Marin County Board of Supervisors voted to have his four million gallon reservoir drained after 15 neighbors protested their homes and lives were endangered after sections of the pond's earthen dam gave way Friday under heavy rains. Murder Warrant Will Be Issued In Slaying Case

WEST UNION, W. Va. (AP) — Magistrate D. J. Cunningham was expected to issue a warrant today charging Wade Osburn, about 50, with murder in the fatal shooting of Roy Ruppert, 61.

Sheriff Charter D. Stinespring of Doddridge County said that he was directed by Prosecutor Robert L. Holland to obtain the murder warrant.

Holland had identified Osburn and Paul Ross, about 40, as the two men being held in the county jail for investigation into the killing of the gas well tender and meterman.

Rupert was the father of Miss Maybelle L. Ruppert, who is Gov. Underwood's secretary - receptionist at Charleston. The victim also has a son, Lt. R. Michael Ruppert, with the U. S. Army Engineers in Germany.

State Police Cpl. C. K. Carson said Osburn admitted the fatal shooting in an oral statement.

Holland said last night that authorities still were questioning Ross, while Stinespring quoted the prosecutor that a jury already has been empaneled for an inquest, but no date has been set.

An autopsy disclosed that Ruppert had two rifle bullets in his right side, the sheriff reported.

Cpl. Carson said his investigation indicated that Ruppert and Osburn were in an automobile driven by Ross when the shooting occurred Monday near Grove. Ross leaped from the car while it was still moving and fled.

Osburn later abandoned the car and took refuge in a farmhouse, where he was arrested by Carson and other officers.

Stinespring reported last night that during questioning, the stories of the shooting told by Osburn and Ross related different details. He quoted Ross that Osburn threatened to kill both him and Ruppert while the three men were traveling in an automobile.

The sheriff quoted Ross that one shot was fired while he was still in the automobile, but he heard a second shot while running up a hillside.

Stinespring said Osburn related that Ruppert and Ross argued in the moving car over the victim's financial assistance to Ross' family. The sheriff added that Ruppert was known for his generosity in aiding persons in need of finances.

Ross contended he was not involved in any argument with Ruppert, Stinespring added. The sheriff, disturbed about a motive for the killing, said:

"There is a missing link in there we have not run across yet . . . I am under the impression . . . that it was anger over something."

He added that some drinking had been done in the car but that Ross denied having had anything to drink.

Ross was brought into town by two brothers of the slain man, John and Wallace Ruppert of Auburn Rt. 1.

The brothers told authorities they had gone to Grove in search of Ross. Not finding him, they were quoted that they turned around and were driving West Union when they overtook Ross walking into town.

They quoted Ross that he was on the way to give himself up to officers. Officers said Ross told them he became lost and spent Monday night in the woods.

Stinespring said another brother, Ed Ruppert, found the slain man's body on his way to his own home at Blandville.

The sheriff quoted Ross that after he jumped from the moving vehicle, it came to a stop in a ditch alongside the highway.

Ruppert's wife died in 1946. He also has a sister, Mrs. Marie Lowther of Leopold, Doddridge County.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 2 p.m. in West Union for Ruppert.

Communist Tactics Told In Talk Here

John Eisenhart, a chemical engineer in Baltimore and a member of the Free State Forum, spoke here last night on Communist tactics aimed at the minds of teen-agers.

Eisenhart gave his talk before representatives of a number of local organizations who met at St. Mary's Hall. He was invited to talk here by officials of Victor Tambolleo Post 1712, Catholic War Veterans.

The Forum, which describes itself as being "dedicated to good constitutional government and Americanism," was organized about a year and a half ago by a number of Baltimore residents. It is a non-profit group headed by Dr. Daniel S. Shanahan, who attended the meeting along with Dr. James R. Grabill, who does research work for the group.

They said schools in many instances, at both lower and higher levels, do not give youth the remotest conception of how the "Communist conspiracy" operates.

Eisenhart said teen-agers are but one target of a Communist plan which also extends into education, labor, religion, music and the arts.

Eisenhart said he has made similar talks before church groups, service clubs and parent-teacher associations in the Baltimore County area.

U. S. Government publications and Communist directives are used by the Forum in composing the various documentary talks, said Eisenhart.

Anna Mathiesen, Ph.D., formerly of Goucher College, is chairman of the research committee of the organization and is assisted by a number of volunteers.

SIMCHA DINITZ

Jewish Lodge Plans Dinner Sunday Night

Western Maryland Lodge B'nai B'rith will install officers at a dinner Sunday at 6:30 p. m. in the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

Simcha Dinitz, a research analyst in the Department of Press and Public Information at the Israel Embassy in Washington, will speak at the dinner.

Born in 1929 at Tel Aviv, Mr. Dinitz graduated from Herzliah High School and then attended the School of Law and Economics at Tel Aviv.

During Israel's "war of liberation" he served with the Israeli Army and later was chief clerk of the Tel Aviv Police District.

Afterwards, he completed his studies in the United States, first at the University of Cincinnati and then at Georgetown University, where he graduated from the School of Foreign Service. In his graduate work he specialized in international law. . .

He is the author of a recently published article on "The Legal Aspects of the Egyptian Blockade of the Suez Canal." He is married and has two children.

Officers to be installed Sunday night include Robert Gerson, president; Robert Kaplon, president-elect (1959); Dr. Samuel M. Jacobson, first vice president; Allan Hirsh, second vice president; Frank H. Kaplon, secretary; Harry Stein, treasurer; Melvin Sack, warden; William B. Schindler, guardian; George Ossip, Robert Goldfine, Harry Kauffman, trustee; and Rabbi Stanley Levin, chaplain.

State Forest Workers Get Service Award

The State Department of Forests and Parks have awarded certificates of service to eight employes for their efforts over the years.

Three have completed 15 years' service and five have been in the department for 10 years. The certificates have been signed by Governor Theodore R. McKeldin and Russell I. Davis, state commissioner of personnel.

The 15-year certificates and pins have been awarded to District Forester William H. Johnson, Myrl Joseph Wilt, forest superintendent in Potomac State Forest, Garrett County, and Miss Eldora Richardson, senior stenographer in the district forester's office at the Court House. Johnson spent three years as district forester in Bel Air and all the rest of his service has been out of the Cumberland office. Wilt, who has been forest superintendent since 1956, was formerly a forest guard at Swallow Falls. Miss Richardson has worked at the Court House throughout her 15 years of service.

Ten-year awards went to Charles C. Thomas, forest guard at Friendsville; Harry M. Hartman Jr., assistant district forester and formerly superintendent at Swallow Falls; Floyd Custer, superintendent of Green Ridge State Forest; Thomas E. Dixon, forest guard in eastern Allegany County, and Curtis L. Conway, superintendent of Fort Frederick State Park.

Custer formerly was a forest guard at Oakland and Conway formerly was forest guard in Cecil County. These certificates covered service up to and including January 1, 1958.

Condemnation Suit Seeks Route 40 Tract

The State Roads Commission has filed a condemnation suit in Allegany County Circuit Court against Saul P. Mauzy of Flintstone.

Sought by condemnation is 0.46 acre needed in the relocation of U. S. Route 40 in the Flintstone area linking the east slope of Martin Mountain to the west slope of Polish Mountain. A check for $450 has been deposited with Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Circuit Court. The SRC considers that a fair price for the property.

Johnson Heights To Resume Classes

Johnson Heights Elementary School resumed classes this morning, according to Superintendens of Schools Ralph R. Webster.

Classes were dismissed at 10:45 a.m. yesterday because of furnace trouble. Webster said the automatic control valve would not shut off and the motor on the stoker remained running indefinitely until it burned out.

Note Contrast In Primary Ballot Battle

Demos To Contest State Positions; GOP, County Posts

The May 20 primary election in Allegany County will constitute a study in contrasts.

On the Republican ticket there will be only two candidates listed for state-wide office and 51 for county positions. The Democrat ballot, on the other hand, will list 14 for state-wide offices, five for the seat in the House of Representatives from the Sixth Congressional District, but only 12 for county positions.

Beall Opposed

The one GOP state contest is of a nominal nature. It pits U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall of Frostburg, seeking a second six-year term, against Henry J. Laque Jr. of Anne Arundel County.

Three other Republican candidates for state offices face no primary opposition. They are Rep. James P. S. Devereux, Baltimore County, for governor; Frederick Mayor John A. Derr, for state comptroller, and Robert A. Wallace, of Montgomery County for attorney general. Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde of Montgomery County also faces no primary opposition in his bid for a fourth term in Congress.

The only unopposed Democrat for state-wide office is Attorney General C. Ferdinand Sybert of Howard County, who seeks re-election.

Baltimore Opposition

State Comptroller J. Millard Tawes, who seeks the Democrat nomination for governor, has nominal opposition from three men. They are Morgan L. Amaimo, Baltimore; Bruce S. Campbell, Baltimore County, and Joseph A. Phillips, Baltimore. Mr. Campbell withdrew in favor of Mr. Tawes but the attorney general ruled that his withdrawal was too late for removal of his name from the ballot.

Three Democrats are contesting for the nomination for state comptroller. They are State Senator Louis L. Goldstein, Calvert County; Sidney London and Joseph L. Manning, both Baltimore City. Seven Democrats are in the running for the nomination for the U. S. Senate. They are James Bruce, Carroll County; Thomas D'Alesandro, mayor of Baltimore; Andrew J. Easter, Baltimore; William F. Fadler Jr., Montgomery County; Clarence D. Long, Baltimore County; George P. Mahoney, Baltimore County, and Alden A. Potter, Montgomery County.

Five Seek House Seat

Five Democrats are in the running for the nomination for the House of Representatives in the 86th Congress. They are John R. Foley, the 1956 nominee; David A. Heller, James H. Mann and Richard Henry Speidel, all of Montgomery County, and Edward D. Storm, Frederick County.

On the county ticket, the 51 GOP candidates will include 16 for the House of Delegates, 12 for county commissioner, 14 for the State Central Committee, five for judges of Orphans Court; two for sheriff and two for state senator. Four other Republicans are unopposed in both the primary and general elections.

The Democratic county ticket will include only seven candidates for the six positions on the State Central Committee and five for the three nominations for county commissioners. Seven Democratic candidates for the state convention will be certified automatically as they face no opposition. Five candidates for the House of Delegates and the one candidate for sheriff also will be certified to the general election without primary opposition.

Club To Enter National Coin Week Contest

The Western Maryland Coin Club will enter the National Coin Week contest April 21-27, according to F. R. Arnold, president.

Coin Week is sponsored by the American Numismatic Association of which the local club is an affiliate. The theme for 1958 is "Around the World with Coins."

Committees to serve during the Coin Week observances have been appointed.

Sandra Roeder, the club's librarian, will be in charge of exhibits and displays of junior members and John Dorn, program director, will schedule slides on coins. He is also collecting hard to get coins for an auction scheduled at the April 23 meeting.

Dorn and O. D. Keyser will head the committee which will select locations for displays and exhibits.

Last year the club gave a new penny, inserted in an album to all babies born in local hospitals during National Coin Week.

The club will continue the event this year and in case a mother that gave birth to a child during Coin Week last year should do the same this year, the baby will be given a bonus present.

Mrs. John Malone and Mrs. John Carroll have been asked to take charge of the event and to make the coin album presentations.

The present U.S. trust territory of the Marshall Islands, in the South Pacific, was first occupied by Spain and Germany. After World War I, the islands were ceded to the Japanese.

That's the word from a home economist at Oregon State college Mrs. Ruth Klippstein.

County Board Plans To Hold Open Meeting

Budget Details To Be Discussed With Press Representatives

After going over the various budget requests yesterday afternoon, the Allegany County Board of Commissioners found that it will have to cut deeply into some of the budgets to keep the tax rate down.

Commissioner James Orr, president of the board said if all of the budgets were approved as presented the tax rate would have to be increased 22 cents per $100 of assessable property.

Meanwhile, Commissioner William A. Wilson reports that for the first time the board will allow the press to attend the meetings on the budget.

In previous years the budget meetings have been held in private. Wilson said he felt that the press should be present so it could report to the general public the matters discussed and actions taken in cutting any of the budgets. "After all," Wilson said, "the taxpayers are the ones who foot the bill and I see no reason why they should not be informed of what is being done."

The commissioners will meet again Friday at 7 p.m. at the Court House and the press will be allowed to attend.

Commissioner Orr cited some of the budget increases requested. They include $9,000 additional for payment of a supplemental pension to school teachers, $68,357.40 for school construction loan principal payments; $39,256 increase in the school budget, $13,279.31 interest on school bonds, $60,559.97 for matching funds for federal aid for the roads program, and $27,500 estimated for modern billing and office equipment for the county tax office at the Court House.

Orr said the various department heads, including Mrs. Elinor M. Westerfeld, director of the County Welfare Board; Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of schools; Dr. Ton van Strien, county health officer, and J. Walker Chapman, roads supervisor, will be asked to meet with the commissioners so that an effort can be made to prune items from their budgets which are not mandatory.

Four Engage In Cook-Off

Two women will be selected from among four contestants today in the cook-offs at the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company service center.

They will vie with contestants from Hagerstown next month for title of Mrs. Maryland. The local contestants are Mrs. Joanne Humbert, LaVale; Mrs. Colleen Kirk, city; Mrs. Alpha Pleasant, Westernport and Mrs. Colleen Lapp, city.

Judges will be Mrs. Gladys Eaton, supervisor of cafeterias for the Allegany County Board of Education; Miss Ellen Servicky, dietician at Memorial Hospital and Mrs. Robert Little Ebert, homemaker and bridal consultant, S. T. Little Jewelry Company.

The finals will be held here April 10 and 11 and the winner will take part in the national event in Florida in May.

Group Hears MaryG.Walsh

Miss Mary G. Walsh, librarian at the Cumberland Free Public Library, will speak at the annual mother and daughter dinner at Gephart School tomorrow at 6:30 p. m.

The dinner will be served in the school cafeteria and Mrs. Archie Prevatte will deliver the invocation.

Following the dinner a program of group singing will be held in the auditorium with pupils taking part. Theresa Davis will accompany the singers on the accordian.

The pupils have written biographies of their mothers and some of these will be read. Miss Walsh will also narrate "Teeny Tiny Woman" and "The Blue Cross."

Gephart PTA Names Leaders

The Parent Teacher Association of Gephart School elected officers for the 1958-59 school at a recent meeting.

Mrs. Wallace Petrea was named president, Mrs. Carlton Brinsfield, vice president; Mrs. W. Cletus Hartsock, secretary and Wilmer Dunn, treasurer.

The PTA voted to donate to the school loan fund for scholarships to Frostburg State Teachers College. Mrs. Eva Hogan, assistant director of the City Recreation Department, spoke on activities at the various playgrounds and suggested how parents could assist with these activities.

Refreshments were served in the cafeteria.

Liquor Case Before Jury In Garrett

A jury today in Garrett County Circuit Court was hearing the case against Proctor-Kildow Post, American Legion, which is charged with violating the alcoholic beverage laws of that county.

Detectives from the State Investigating Agency, Baltimore, a private concern, accompanied by Garrett County law enforcement officers, found two partly filled whisky bottles in the post home which is licensed to sell only beer, State's Attorney S. R. Pagenhardt, declared.

It was also testified that upon inspecting the living quarters of the post steward, William Stewart, in an apartment over the post home, the detectives and officers found a case of whisky in a locked cupboard.

Thomas B. Finan, who was defense counsel for the Legion, today argued a motion before Associate Judge Fraley that those on the raid had no authority to inspect the living quarters of Stewart.

But, Judge Fraley denied the motion, claiming that under the county's alcoholic beverage code it was legal to do so.

The Legion post was one of several indicted following raids and investigations conducted by the Baltimore "private eye" firm.

The trial continued into this afternoon.

Church Plans Youth Dinner

The youth of Centre Street Methodist Church will be guests of the church at a fellowship dinner Wednesday, April 2, at 6:15 p. m., according to Rev. Carlton M. Harris, pastor, who said the event will be held in the gymnasium of the church.

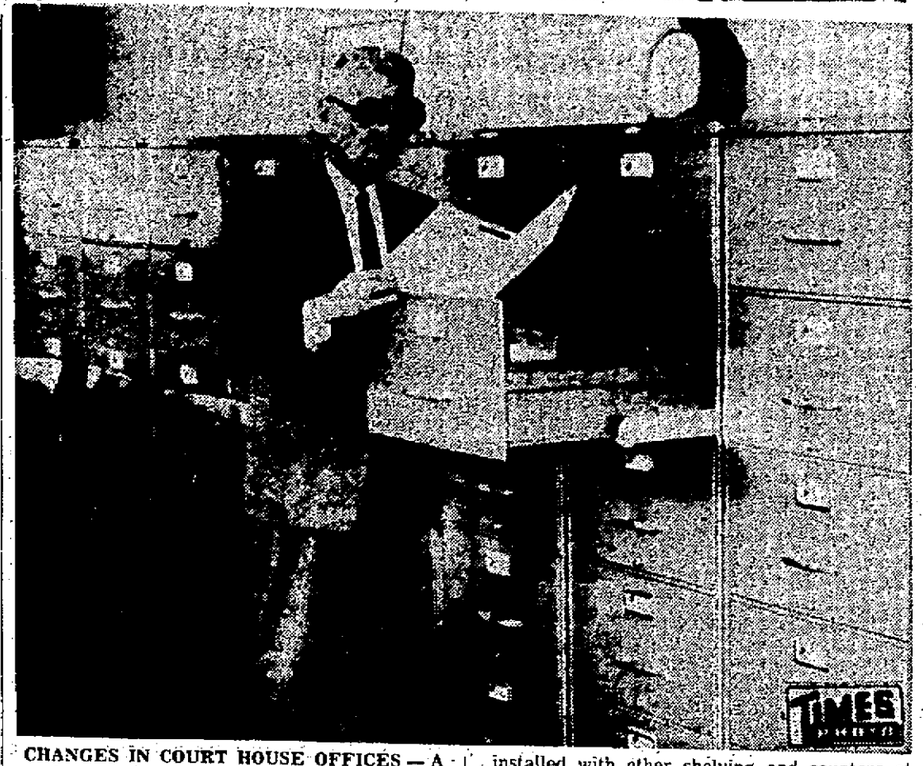
Following the dinner, a candlelight worship service will be conducted in the church sanctuary by several ministerial students who are members of Centre Street Church. Jack Ewald, president of the Youth Fellowship of the church, will be in charge of the devotions.

A meditation on "Life's Opportunities and Christian Living" will be presented by Rev. John Bayley Jones, former pastor of First Methodist Church, Frostburg, who is now pastor of Calvary Church, Washington.

Marianne Hoelzer and Lee Deetz are in charge of publicity for the program.

Named To Committee

Edmund S. Burke, president of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, has been appointed to a committee that has been formed to assist in the observance of National Sunday School Week, April 14-20.



CHANGES IN COURT HOUSE OFFICES — A major project has been completed in modernization of the offices of the Clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court in the Court House here. The upper photo shows the land records room where deeds and mortgages are filed. The counters and the shelving on the walls was installed with other shelving and counters at a cost of over $16,000. Shown in the top picture are, left to right, William R. Carscaden, local attorney; J. Walter Fisher, deputy clerk, and Albert A. Doub, local lawyer. The bottom photo shows the clerk of the court, Joseph E. Boden, as he examines one of the cabinets.

Judge Raises Warrant Cost To $5 Level

Warrants issued for parking tickets will cost the motorist $5 in the future.

Trial Magistrate J. Milton Dick said this morning that in the future both he and Magistrate Morris Baron will require $5 for warrants.

In the past parking tickets cost the violator $1, but if the ticket is not paid within a reasonable time a warrant is issued.

After the warrant was issued, the violator paid $1 for the ticket and an additional $1 for the warrant.

Magistrate Dick said that in the future the warrants will cost $5. The city ordinance states that such violators may be fined from $1 to $100 or one to 30 days in the city jail.

The increase in the cost of warrants, Magistrate Dick said, is because so many people are taking advantage of the low cost.

In the past police officers were forced to make as many as five and six trips back to the violator's house to collect the dollar.

Magistrate Dick pointed out that the officer's time and the time used by clerks to write up warrants is worth more than a dollar.

U. S. To Pay Charges For Extra Work

The federal government will assume the cost of additional paving in Wills Creek channel which was not figured on in the original contract.

About $300,000 will be needed to put a concrete bed in the creek between Market and Valley streets.

When the E. J. Albrecht Company began to excavate it was found that the rock strata was such that a rock bed would not be feasible for 700 feet downstream from the Valley Street Bridge.

In the original plans, the Corps of Army Engineers had decided to have the floor of the creek dug down into solid rock for a bed.

The extra paving means that the entire bed of the creek will be paved, except for several portions which have a solid rock bottom.

Section 1, from the Narrows to the Zimmerla Machine Shops, was paved along the entire length.

From the downstream end of the new work about 700 feet to where Wills Creek flows into the Potomac River, paving will not be needed, as solid rock will provide a satisfactory base.

Street Parking Plan Changed

Parking on Frederick Street between Marshall and 714 Frederick Street, will be reversed beginning Tuesday of next week.

Police Chief R. Emmett Flynn said today that beginning Tuesday there will be no parking on the right side of Frederick in this area.

The chief said this is an emergency measure due to the condition of the street.

The necessary repairs of this area will be completed by May 1, according to William H. Buchholtz, street commissioner, at which time the parking will revert back to the right side.

The Chief said: "I trust the people in this area will bear with us until a very bad situation existing on Frederick Street is corrected."

Film Planned Friday Old Furnace Church

Film slides of Camp Galilee at Terra Alta, a Brethren youth camp, will also be shown. Proceeds will be used to help send youth of the church to camp next summer.

Interest Apparently Lags In City Election

With the deadline for filing for elective municipal positions less than two months away not a single candidate has filed for mayor or councilman.

Neither Mayor Roy W. Eves or the three incumbent councilmen, William H. Buchholtz, John J. Long and William V. Keegan, have indicated their intentions concerning re-election, but it is believed in political circles that all will again be on the city ballot.

Some rumors have been circulating about the possibility of former officeholders and candidates being interested in seeking election to the council post now occupied by Mrs. Josephine Edwards, since it is believed she is not interested in undergoing the rigors of an election campaign.

Mrs. Edwards was named commissioner of water and electric light following the recent death of her husband, William J. Edwards, a veteran office holder and campaigner.

Several names have been bandied about as possible opponents to Mayor Eves, should he seek re-election, but a check has failed to show that any are interested in trying to unseat the city's "leading father."

Political observers have offered the explanation that the impending county and state elections have taken the play away from the city ballot battle.

It was also reported that several candidates who have filed for county positions will try their luck in the city primary should they fail to make the grade in the county primary.

The county primary will be held Tuesday, May 20, and any candidate who fails to survive that election will have three days in which to file for election to a city position. The deadline for filing in the city election is midnight Friday, May 23.

The city primary will be staged Tuesday, June 3, and the general election on Tuesday, June 17.

Court House Record Work Progressing

New Filing Cabinets Bring About Change In Storing Of Forms

Another phase of the modernization of the offices of the Clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court has been completed.

Installed have been $16,431.50 in roller shelves, counters and filing cabinets, according to Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Circuit Court.

The first phase of the overall project was the purchase of a photostat machine for $18,000. This was installed in the Court House basement and is used to duplicate copies of deeds and mortgages filed in the land records office.

The new filing cabinets in the clerk's office have brought about a change from the old folded paper forms in the law and equity departments.

Old Records Removed

Papers filed in law suits are left flat and filed in that manner, Boden pointed out. This conforms with modern systems in use in other parts of the state.

The Modern Stationery Company of Baltimore received the contract for the counters and roller shelves at a low bid of $13,568.50. The job was handled and awarded by the State Department of Public Improvements.

The Ankeney Company of Cumberland was given the contract for the filing cabinets and some new desks at a cost of $2,863.

During the course of installing the new roller shelves that will hold the land records and mortgage dockets, old records dating back to 1791 were removed and stored in three rooms in the Court House basement.

Some of these books have been housed in Allegany County's three court houses, Boden pointed out.

One Book Missing

Only one book is missing in the 167-year history of Allegany County. That is Test Book 1 that contained the signatures of the first county officials of the county.

When the predecessor to the present Court House was gutted by fire in 1892, the test book was the only one that was lost.

Boden said it either was burned or was carried away. Efforts to locate it have been fruitless.

With this major project over, Boden said modernization of the index books of the land and mortgage records will be next.

The Board of Allegany County Commissioners, which has had the offices painted, plans to improve the lighting system, Boden added.

The clerk said he has received excellent cooperation in the modernization program from the judges of the Fourth Judicial Circuit, The Allegany County Bar Association committee on records and commissioners.

Tennis Court Bids Opened

A Hagerstown man was low bidder on the project to provide tennis courts at Frostburg State Teachers College.

Bids were opened by the State Department of Public Improvements this past week in Baltimore.

The low bidder was Norman C. Klipp with $48,375. Other bids received were $64,126 from the Hout Construction Company, Cumberland, and $65,518 from Orrie R. Sensabaugh, also of this city.

Forest Fire Program Slated By Cub Pack

Cub Scout Pack 10, sponsored by LaVale Methodist Church, will meet Friday at 7:30 p. m. at the church, according to B. B. Lucas, cubmaster, who said the program on "Forest Fire Control" will be presented by Brooke Bodkin, state forest supervisor in this area.

The opening ceremony will be presented by Den 1, with Mrs. Fleurette Brandenburg, den mother, in charge.

Easter Lily Parade Event Here Saturday

Cumberland Aerie 245, FO Eagles, will stage its annual Easter Lily Parade this Saturday, according to Glenn W. Sonner, president.

John L. (Ted) Farrin has been appointed chairman of the annual campaign, which last year contributed $500.36 towards the support of the extensive activities sponsored by the Allegany County League for Crippled Children.

Farrin, a past president of Aerie 245, is being assisted by Thomas J. Hopwood, Lewis Johnson, Charles Robinette and John Ruehl, all officers of the aerie, and a number of volunteers from the lodge membership.

Also assisting in the Saturday sale will be students from Allegany and Fort Hill High schools, Farrin said.

Clement Sees Demo Victory In Maryland

Governor Featured At Party Rally On Eastern Shore

By The Associated Press

Gov. Frank G. Clement of Tennessee told 800 Democrats in Salisbury last night that the return of Democratic administrations in Maryland and the District of Columbia within the next four years is inevitable.

The youthful governor was the featured speaker at a Jackson-Jefferson dinner which drew most of the principal candidates for statewide offices.

Clement was critical of the Republican administration's method of handling the current downswing in the nation's economy.

Time For Change

"You can't expect the business recession to pull down your living costs any appreciable degree," he said. "The real fear is that prices will continue upward for some months to come. We point simply to the mounting evidence that it's time for a change in Washington.

"The business-busting Republican administration calls the downturn a recession. How harmless they would have it sound."

While the Democrats were meeting in Salisbury, Republican Reps. James P. S. Devereux and Edward T. Miller addressed a session of the Republican Women of Dorchester County at Hurlock.

Miller, of Easton, said he always has favored a tax cut but not merely as an anti-recession measure. He is running for renomination for his First District seat.

Devereux, from the Second District, is unopposed for the state's Republican nomination for governor. He came out against any encroachment of states' rights by the federal government.

Restrictions Imposed

"When a state gets something from the federal government," he said, "the government imposes restrictions. We surrender too much to the federal government. We should not give to the federal government the rights and responsibilities that belong to a state."

Two members of the so-called "harmony" ticket attended the Democratic gathering in Salisbury —State Comptroller J. Millard Tawes, running for governor, and Baltimore Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro, a Tawes opponent earlier this year but now seeking the U.S. Senate nomination.

Two of D'Alesandro's opponents for the Democratic Senate nomination also were on hand—Baltimore County contractor James P. Mahoney and former diplomat James Bruce.

Tonight, the Democrats swing down to Southern Maryland for a similar affair at Chesapeake Beach in Calvert County.

Before leaving for Salisbury, many of the candidates got off new pronouncements from their Baltimore headquarters.

Claims Union Support

From George P. Mahoney's headquarters came a claim of support for his candidacy in the senatorial primary by three construction unions representing employes

Settlements Reported For Six Damage Suits

Damage suits brought by six workmen who were badly burned in a flash fire in a silo building June 19, 1956 while they were at work on construction of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company Works 7 here have been settled by attorneys.

The six men, who were represented by Edward J. Ryan and William L. Wilson, local attorneys, were in the silo building about 7 a.m. on June 19, 1956 when a flash fire resulted from accumulated fumes from a gas heater which operated on bottled gas.

No announcement was made of the amounts the cases were settled for but it is understood they were substantial.

The suits were brought by Kenneth Valentine, city; Leo Mills, Ridgeley; Elvin C. Butcher, Webster Springs, W. Va.; Robert Weller, Hagerstown; Carl Bird, Christiansburg, Va., and Clarence Fosnight, Front Royal, Va.

All of them were hospitalized for several months and some underwent skin grafts for burns about the hands, face and body.

The six suits were brought against the Consolidated Engineering Company, main contractor on the plant work and the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company. Party plaintiffs in the suits were the insurance firms which carried policies of the two companies.

William H. Geppert is counsel for the Consolidated Engineering Company insurer and W. Earle Cobey represents the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company insurer.

The insurance firms paid compensation and hospital costs of the injured men.

Oakland Sets 54-Year Snow Depth Record

Blackwater Area Gets 220 Inches In Winter Season

A check today revealed there is plenty of snow remaining on the ground in the mountains of the tri-state area.

And weather observers also reported this winter has broken many records for total snowfall.

Totals range from 220 inches in Blackwater State Park at Davis, to a 54-year-old record breaker of 117 inches at Oakland.

Virgil Spitzer, superintendent of Blackwater Falls State Park, said the official total for that section is 220 inches.

Heavy For Potomac

This amount, he said, would be about the same for the Fairfax Stone area, just four miles north of the park, which is at the headwaters of the Potomac River.

R. E. Weber, official Weather Bureau observer at Oakland for 51 years and who also has records for the three previous years, said this has been the worst winter, from the standpoint of total snowfall, in that period.

He recorded 115 inches of actual snowfall at the same place he has been measuring the depths for the past 51 years and where his brohter took the measurements three years prior to that.

The only other winters having 100 inches or more at Oakland during that time have been in 1925-26 with a total of 111.25 inches, and in 1935-36 with 107-15 inches.

Much On Ground

However, all of Oakland's snow and rain goes into the Youghiogheny River and eventually into the Monongehela and Ohio rivers.

But New Germany is at the headwaters of the Potomac River and Elmer Uphole Jr., superintendent of the state park there, said he, as a Weather Bureau observer, has recorded a total of 126.7 inches.

He also reported there is 34 inches accumulated on the ground. He added this packed snow contains nine inches of precipitation, according to a measurement he took yesterday.

As a matter of clarification, Weber explained his total for the year does not match the State Roads Commission figures for Oakland, as the measurements are taken two to three miles apart. The SRC figures show there has been about 145 inches at Oakland. These measurements, Weber added, are taken in a fairly enclosed area, while his were measured in the open.

Taxi Fares To Be Raised

A ten-cent increase in cab fares charged by three Cumberland companies will go into effect April 1, it was revealed today.

An agreement has been reached between the Astor and Yellow Top cab companies with Local 589, Teamsters and Chauffeurs Union, calling for a 60-cent fare.

This is the first change in prices since 1952, when the firms dropped ten cents from 60 cents to 50 cents.

C. E. Stutzman, business agent for Local 453, said the two companies are paying the second highest commission to drivers in the nation.

He emphasized the fare hike was agreed upon so that the drivers could earn a little more money. A spokesman for the cab firms said the increase was necessary from an economic, operating standpoint.

Stutzman said the 71 Cab Company, which is not represented by the union, has agreed to go along with the increase.

Paw Paw Area Favors Park Along Canal

WILLIAMSPORT — The Town of Paw Paw has thrown its support behind the work of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Club here.

Mayor John H. Kesler of Paw Paw sent a large number of signatures from persons of that area on a petition seeking the development of the canal as a national park.

"Our community earnestly encourages any support that can be given to the C&O canal parkway project," Mayor Kesler wrote.

"The restoration of various designated areas would do much toward putting the area in the limelight.

"Since we are from the Paw Paw area, our community could possibly share in the business and publicity this project would encourage.

"Another problem, of many on the unemployed rolls in our locality, could be helped.

"We have encouraged other civic organizations to go on record in supporting this project, and you can count on us to assist in any way possible."

LaSalle Faces Tourney Favorite In Newport Opener

New Jersey Opponent In Tomorrow's 3:15 Contest

One thing about LaSalle High's participation in two basketball tournaments this year, the locals were given strong starting assignments.

When the charges of coach George Geatz take the floor at the Rogers High School gym tomorrow afternoon to launch the Eastern States Catholic Invitation Tournament at Newport, R. I., at 3:15, they will go up against the defending-champion and top-seeded Trenton Catholic Boys High of Trenton, N. J.

Last Friday, in their opening game of the Knights of Columbus affair at Georgetown University in Washington, LaSalle was paired with fourth-seeded and undefeated Catholic Central of Troy, N. Y. The Crusaders almost lived up to their high billing, whipping the locals handily and then coming up with the consolation championship. Archbishop Molloy of Jamaica, N. Y., successfully defended its title in the C of C tourney by whipping John Carroll of Washington, 61-47, in the title battle.

Carroll In Tourney

John Carroll also joins the locals in the ESCIT, the Capitol City cagers being third-seeded in the eight-team affair which includes most of the leading parochial schools in the east.

LaSalle's traveling group left by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad last night. Eleven players, the team manager, coaches George Geatz and Dick Boyle and Brothers Thomas and Mark made the trip.

Four games are set for tomorrow's first rounds. Following the LaSalle-Trenton clash will be the contest between John Carroll and St. Aloysius of Jersey City, N. J., at 4:30.

DeLaSalle, host quint from Newport, will face All Hallows of New York City to start off the night's activity at 8 o'clock and then Manhattan Prep, New York City, tangles with St. Joseph's of Huntington, W. Va., in the nightcap at 9:15.

Semi-finals are set for Friday with the winners of games one and two colliding at 8 p. m. and the victors in games three and four meeting at 9:30. Consolation-round tilts Friday have the losers in the afternoon frays tomorrow meeting at 3:15 and the losers of games three and four playing at 4:30.

On Saturday the third-place contest is carded for 3:15, the consolation final at 4:30 and the championship battle at 8 o'clock. Awards will be distributed at 9:15 Saturday night.

Dempsey Leads Trenton

Trenton carries a record of 18 wins and two losses into the tourney. Joe Dempsey, a six-foot, five-inch center, is the scoring gun and leader of the New Jersey quint. The Explorers, for the regular season, lost only one game in 23 starts. In Charles "Chazz" Imes and center Rick Winfield the locals should be able to match the 1957 champs in height, something they were unable to do in two of their three games at Washington last weekend.

John Carroll, runnerup in the Georgetown classic, lost four times during the regular season but two of the losses were to freshmen quints from Georgetown and the University of Maryland. Carroll will have one of the tallest clubs in the tourney with six-nine John Thompson and six-eight Tom Hoover. Both were among the outstanding cagers in the Metropolitan area this season.

Carroll's opponent, Jersey City's St. Aloysius High, is one of the strong Class B schools from the Garden State and had won 17 games. Thomas Nyire is the team captain and is listed as six-foot, six-inches tall. He gets plenty of help from Bob Sponza, a six-four cager.

De La Salle Improves

De La Salle Academy, a three time ESCIT winner, sports a mediocre 14-10 slate, but showed improvement in the latter part of the season. John Gibson, who is six-four, and Andy Anderson are the top scorers for the Academy team.

All Hallows School, finalist in the New York City championships, is another fast, high-scoring team, led by team captain Ken McClory and Mike Reidy. All Hallows' record is 18 and 5.

Second seeded Manhattan Prep won its division of the New York Catholic High School league and the Christian Brothers Tournament. Manhattan built up a 23 and 3 record with six-six John Dearie and six-four Dave Slattery leading the way.

Huntington's St. Joseph's High, defending West Virginia state champ, was upset in the finals of this year's state tourney. Paced by six-four Terry Malloy and six-three Bill Pasquali, the team's high scorer, St. Joseph's has a 20 and 6 record.

AUSTIN, Texas — (NEA) — Coaches say it will take a world record to win anything in the sprint relays of the Texas Relays, March 28-29.

CLOSED PEEPER, BUT NO WEEPER — Managing a wry smile, Carmen Basilio, who lost middleweight title, sits in dressing room with swollen eye much in evidence last night at Chicago. It was main damage after fight with winner Sugar Ray Robinson. (AP Photofax)

Sugar, Basilio Tabbed 'Last' Of Fighting Men

By BILL CORUM

CHICAGO—(INS)—They did it again.

Ray Robinson, the recurring middleweight champion of the world, and Carmen Basilio, as up-stream, game and gallant a little man as men in sports—any sport—thrilled the boxing world again last night in the Chicago Stadium with another bitter battle that sets them apart as the last two, for sure, fighting men left in boxing.

They walked it hard from the first flicking left-hand to the last vicious punch through 15 rounds of clean and savage fighting, and really neither won and neither lost.

For you can't fight like that, and really lose.

Wheel In Full Spin

If ever the wheel of fortune came the full spin in two prize-fights and two men scored a glorious victory in both, Carmen Basilio and Ray Robinson, the old man to whom pride is not an idle word, did it in their fight last night on top of their previous rip-and-tear in the Yankee Stadium last September.

Ah, but it was a bonnie battle between ringmen whose legs may shake and wabble, as both theirs did at times last evening, but whose hearts and will to win, never faltered for an instant.

Of course, Robinson, making fight history that will not be repeated in the memory of any now alive by winning what surely he has a right to believe is his championship for the fifth time, won.

Won off, as we say at the race track. I thought he won the first time. This time there was no doubt.

Yet there might well have been a doubt in view of what happened after, if Ray had not had the luck to close, or nearly close, Basilio's left eye as early as the fifth round.

Of course, he didn't butt the champion to whom he had loaned his crown, as previously he had loaned it to Randy Turpin and Gene Fullmer. He didn't thumb him. He did not rake the eye with lace of his glove.

Smash Closes Eye

He closed it, or started it swelling and closing, with a straight right hand smash in the fourth round that was one of his clean and almost patented punches to the bulls-eye of the target.

The eye closed quickly, how completely only a fellow who still is a champion, if not the middleweight champion, knows.

After that "little cyclops" fought and fought, and then fought some more, until the end found him a huddled figure in a strange heap, praying on the floor of the ring.

His friends tell me that Carmen cried himself to sleep in his hotel room, with tears in his good eye, because he felt he let somebody down.

But whom could he have let down. Not Carmen Basilio certainly, and a man who never lets himself down, I must believe, never let anybody down.

He was wonderful, really wonderful, Carmen was. And so was the old man. Ah, if you know boxing, you must know that he was superb.

Boxing has been called the "sweet science." Sugar Ray has made that ancient term true in the modern history of the ring.

'Sugar' Superb

Cannily nursing last night the last ounce of his energy, stabbing with a left hand that gave him his name, when somebody said long ago, "look at him, he's as sweet as sugar," rationing every punch and move, the man was superb.

Oddly, after Basilio's left eye was shut tight, Ray walked the wrong way — to his left. Yet, he knew exactly what he was doing. For to put his combinations together through 17 years in the pit, he has walked that way.

Too smart to change on a gamble that he didn't think he had to take, he declined the gambit . . . but if, by chance, it had been Basilio's right eye that was closed, believe me, there would have been no 15th round.

Then the champion would have had to come to him, in the way that he wanted too much, and tried too hard, to make the game boy come to him.

Tired, and how tired he was from the 11th round on, for Carmen hurt him and dug deep to his belly and sapped his waning strength, he had it figured.

He watched the clock and counted almost the seconds, weighing them against his strength — and never has he been a strong man — but almost never does he make the move.

The middleweight championship came home last night to where it belonged. For Ray Robinson is the true champion as he has been so long among the welters and the middleweights.

Chicago Holds Fighting Hex Over Basilio

By BILL CONWAY

CHICAGO (AP) —This is, indeed, Carmen Basilio's jinx town.

Good and gallant as he is, he just can't win in Chicago.

He fought here four times—losing to Chuck Davey and Billy Graham in 1951, to Johnny Saxton in 1956 and to Ray Robinson last night.

But Basilio wore what you might call the black badge of courage through most of his duel against Robinson — a left eye as big and as black as an eight ball. Newsmen noted that the eye was closed when he came out for the sixth round. But Basilio said his vision was limited from the fourth round to the end of the savage brawl.

Chicago, conversely, is Robinson's lucky city. In 13 bouts here he lost only one — to Tiger Jones, in 1955, when Robinson was making a comeback from retirement.

Although Basilio entered the ring the favorite, the form players could have made a tidy sum on Robinson. He never has lost twice to the same man. He maintained that record by whipping Basilio just six months and two days after losing the middleweight title to him in New York.

The sponsoring International Boxing Club announced attendance of 17,976 with a gross gate of $351,955. Thus it fell short of the record indoor gate of $422,918 set in the same Chicago Stadium July 16, 1947, by a couple of other middleweights, Tony Zale and Rocky Graziano.

Three CTP Matches All End In Shutouts

All three matches in the B & O CTP Women's Bowling League finished in 3-0 shutouts as Capitals won over Nationals, Ambassadors swept Shenandoahs and Columbians defeated Diplomats.

Pacing their teams were Tillie Gobeli, 128-346, Capitals; Nora Doernor, 136-348, Ambassadors; Lillie Dentinger 110 and Margie Zieler 319, Columbians; Barb Sarver, 131-334, Diplomats; Pauline Shaffer 123 and Anna Morin 288, Shenandoahs; Hittie Carnell, 109-271, and Daisy Buskey 271, Nationals.

Basilio Wants Return Bout Against Sugar

By JOE MOOSHIL

CHICAGO (AP) — Fabulous Sugar Ray Robinson played the role of a six-time champion to the hilt last night by barring reporters from his dressing room and holding a press conference hours later in his hotel suite.

"He's just too tired to talk now," said manager George Gainford right after Robinson had battered Carmen Basilio for 15 rounds to regain the middleweight title of the world for the fourth time.

Sugar Ray, onetime welterweight champion and five-time winner of the middleweight crown, was whisked to his hotel room. Lying in bed in a pair of blue and white striped pajamas, he answered questions softly and briefly.

"It was one of my toughest fights," he said. "I'm tired, very tired. I haven't made up my mind what I'm going to do."

Would he retire? Would he fight again? Would he fight Basilio again?

"I don't know, I'm not sure. I can't say right now," he said.

He said Basilio "hurt me several times," but he said he was "very surprised" when he learned Referee Frank Sikora had scored Basilio the winner.

Basilio, his left eye closed, swollen and discolored, talked about a return bout with the man whom he dethroned in 15 rounds in New York last Sept. 23.

Carmen said his vision was impaired from the fourth round on and kept him off balance. By the sixth round the eye was shut completely.

"I couldn't get my distance right," he said. "If you can't get distance, you find yourself off balance."

"We want a return match," said co-manager Joe Netro.

Baylor To Decide On Career Soon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Elgin Baylor, Seattle's sizzling shooter, may pass up a final year of college basketball to join the professional ranks.

The West Coast All America said he hasn't made up his mind but will announce his decision by next Monday.

He said he is considering joining the pros because of "personal reasons." He declined to elaborate. The 22-year-old junior is here on a visit to his parents.

Baylor's height, agility and scoring ability have made him one of the finest players in Far West history. He led Seattle into Saturday's NCAA finals at Louisville, Ky., after pacing the Chieftains with more than 800 points in regular season play.

Kentucky beat Seattle 84-72 for the championship, but Baylor was voted the tournament's Most Valuable Player.

The 6-foot-6 star hasn't been drafted by the pros. However, it's a virtual cinch he'll be tapped when the professional draft is held next month despite having another year of collegiate eligibility. Baylor will be the subject to the draft because he put in a year at the College of Idaho before transferring to Seattle.

Long Taking Aim At New Homer Mark

By FRED DE LUCA
(INS Sports Writer)

Dale Long, the streak-hitting first baseman of the Chicago Cubs, already holds one major league home run record and is taking dead aim at another.

The 6-foot-4 slugger wrote baseball history May 28, 1956, when he hit his eighth home run in eight consecutive games — a major league record.

Long was with Pittsburgh then, but he is thinking of homers again — only this time in bunches.

Long Blow Only Single

The left-handed distance hitter belted three homers yesterday as the Cubs bombed the San Francisco Giants, 15 to 4, at Phoenix, Ariz. Long came close to a fourth roundtripper — the major league record for one game — when another blow to rightfield hit an extension over the scoreboard, but he was held to a single.

The first two circuits came off Johnny Antonelli and the third was off Pete Burnside, another southpaw pitcher.

Chuck Tanner, Ernie Banks and John Goryl also homered as the Cubs continued their fabulous belting which has accounted for 50 runs in the last four games. And this from a team that was the National League's weakest hitting squad in 1957 with a team batting average of .244.

Purkey Pleases Tebbetts

Cincinnati manager Birdie Tebbetts, who has been disappointed in the showings of Harvey Haddix, had something to be pleased about in the work of another pitching acquisition — Bob Purkey.

The big righthander went the distance and limited Washington to five hits as Cincinnati won, 3 of 1. Frank Robinson homered for the Redlegs.

Don Drysdale and Clem Labine combined on a seven-hit effort as the Los Angeles Dodgers blanked St. Louis, 8 to 0. Charley Neal homered off Von McDaniel.

Dave Sisler stretched his hitless pitching skein to nine straight innings and was the winning pitcher for Boston as the Red Sox nipped the Milwaukee Braves, 4 to 3. Bob Buhl absorbed the loss when the Red Sox scored three times in the sixth inning.

Phils Whip Yanks

Philadelphia, with Dick Farrell turning in three nifty innings of relief, beat the New York Yankees, 5 to 4. The Yankees scored all their runs in the first two innings.

Kansas City outpowered Detroit, 8 to 6, with each team hitting three homers. Joe DeMaestri, Hector Lopez and Bob Cerv connected for the A's and Charlie Lau, Billy Martin and Frank Bolling for the Tigers.

Brooks Robinson hit two homers to drive in four runs as Baltimore downed Cleveland, 8 to 5, to end a four-game losing streak. Bert Hamric and Chico Carrasquel hit round-trippers for the Indians.

Fights Last Night

By The Associated Press

CHICAGE (Chicago Stadium)—Sugar Ray Robinson, 159¾, New York, outpointed Carmen Basilio, 153, Chittenango, N. Y., 15 (Robinson regained world middleweight championship).

LONDON—Cleveland Williams, 208½, Houston, Tex., awarded decision over Dick Richardson, 203, Wales (Richardson disqualified in fourth round for "persistent butting").

School Bowlers Paced By Felton

LaSalle High's Tim Felton was the top bowler in the Bi-State Interscholastic League for the season just completed, showing a 156 average for 48 games. He also had the season's best set—599.

Mike Holcomb of Fort Hill was runnerup in average with 142 and Raymond Athey, also Fort Hill, was third with 141. Fort Hill's Ed Dawson had high game of 239.

Fort Hill, second-half winner, and LaSalle, victor in the first-half race, will clash in a six-game rolloff Sunday for the league championship.

The Cleveland Indians will have a new look, uniform-wise, this season. A pin-stripe has been adopted and the formerly solid blue socks wil lbe encircled by red and white stripes.

Daley Shoots For Big Year With Indians

This is another in a series of spring-training stories by Norm Gerdeman, former local baseball star and minor league manager, who is covering major league teams working out in the Far West. Gerdeman now resides in Lake Tahoe, Nev; where he is employed by Harrah's Club.

By NORM GERDEMAN

TUCSON, Ariz. — Bud Daley, determined Cleveland Indian southpaw, figures 1958 may be his year. The 24-year-old native of Long Beach, Calif., who pitches a right arm which has been withered since birth, has been one of the most impressive hurlers in the Tribe camp this spring.

In a recent Cactus League game against the Giants he allowed only three men to reach first base—two on walks and the third was hit by a pitchin the first three innings. Of the three, Daley picked one off himself and another was erased by a double play.

Feels Better This Year

"I feel better this year than I ever have before," the young father of three says. "I think weight has something to do with it. I usually play at around 178 pounds and for the past few years I have reported to spring training at that weight. Then I would lose about 10 pounds and have to build myself back up. But this winter I didn't do a thing. I came to camp with about 10 extra pounds and although I have lost eight, I feel a lot stronger."

Bud, who started his baseball career with Bakersfield, Calif. in 1951, started last season with San Diego of the Pacific Coast League, but after winning three straight with a .083 earned run average he was called up to the parent club. He finished the season, his longest stay in the majors, with just two wins and eight losses.

I learned a whole lot last season although my record wasn't good, Buddy claims. 'In the first place, I found that you can't overpower the hitters. I never was very fast anyway and I learned the best thing to do is concentrate on control.

Rated As Smart Pitcher

Mel Harder, Indian pitching coach, thinks that "tough luck" was one of Daley's main problems last season. "He's a smart pitcher . . . it sure would help if he comes through this season."

Daley claims the limp right arm, which was the result of a nerve pinched by instruments at birth, has never bothered him as far as baseball is concerned a nd he does not consider it a handicap. He considers his best season an 11-1 record with Indianapolis of the American Association in 1956.

Daley is hoping that his performance last year was just one of those things that he will be able to shake this season. As for the quick spring start he says: "I was defeated so much last season it sure feels good to get someone out once in a while."

Bobcats Open Title Defense In 'Y' Tournament Tonight

Two semi-finalists were determined last night in the Central YMCA-Jaycees Basketball Tournament at the "Y" while two more quints can enter the semi-finals with triumphs in the 135-pound division tonight.

With three games on tap, Pratt's Sunoco will meet Police Boys Club at 6:30 and Bobcats, last year's champs under the banner of Don McIntyre's, oppose Riger's Big Five an hour later in the 135-pound clashes. The winners tangle next Monday in one of the semi-final contests.

A Senior Unlimited tilt is also listed tonight with Ridgeley Legion opposing Don McIntyre's in the close out contest at 8:30.

Sanders' Gulf made it to the semi-finals in the 135-pound class with a 68-17 thumping of Royale Dairy while Mason's Snack Bar whipped Potomac Park, 45-17, and will take on Lovers' Leap Esso next Wednesday in a semi-final tussle of the Junior Unlimited division.

Hafer House Furniture launched play in the senior classification with a 47-24 decision over Johnson's Grocers in last night's other action.

Bill Perry paced Hafer's with 22 points while Mark Giovanelli and Tom Shaw had nine and six for the losers who were held to only eight goals. John Estes was the big gun for Mason's with 19 markers. Potomac Park, trailing by only 6-5 at the first quarter, could manage only 12 tallies the rest of the way and collected but three field goals for the entire action.

Royce Waltman and Ray Taylor dumped in 18 points apiece as Sanders' Gulf had an easy time against Royale Dairy. The winners had 29 fielders and were way on top, 31-8, at intermission. Sanders will play Jimmy's Place Tuesday at 6:30 in the other semi-final of the 135-pound class.

Hart Favored Over Smith In Welter Clash

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Welterweights Garnet (Sugar) Hart and Charley (Tombstone) Smith clash tonight for a chance at moving higher into the division rankings and nearer to a title shot.

The two figure to put on a good show for those at ringside in the arena and for the national television audience on ABC at 10 p.m. in their scheduled 10-rounder.

Smith, 24-year-old Los Angeles resident, is an agressive fighter given to punching in bursts. Hart, 22, of Philadelphia, is a standup fighter who likes to counterpunch.

Both have power. Hart has 19 knockouts in his 24-3-1 record. Smith has stopped 12 opponents in compiling a 25-5 record.

The odds of 2-1 that favor Hart locally are somewhat hard to figure in view of their respective ratings. The National Boxing Assn. ranks Hart seventh among the welterweight contenders while Ring Maazine places him 10th. Smith is ranked eighth by the NBA and fourth by Ring.

Celts, Hawks NearCinching Shot At Finals

By The Associated Press

Unless there's a complete about-face by their semi-final opponents, the Boston Celtics and St. Louis Hawks again will meet for the National Basketball Assn. championship.

The Celtics can move into the playoff finals tonight by beating the Warriors in Philadelphia. Boston leads 3-0 in the best-of-seven competition.

St. Louis is in position to clinch a semi-final triumph tomorrow night. Last night, the Hawks took a commanding 3-1 lead over the Detroit Pistons by picking up an easy 145-101 victory.

The Hawks turned in a blazing first half. They raced to a 72-44 advantage and coasted the rest of the way. The Hawks' total points broke a two-year team scoring record for a playoff game set by Minneapolis. St. Louis also set another mark by pumping 55 field goals through the hoop.

Orioles Seeking Gene Woodling

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles are showing interest in Gene Woodling but chances of landing the Cleveland Indians' left fielder depend on finding a player in return.

"Just say I'm noncommittal on the subject," said Manager Paul Richards after talks with Cleveland General Manager Frank Lane. "We haven't gotten into it too deeply yet."

There appeared to be little doubt Woodling was available if the Orioles could satisfy Lane with a player in return.

"I'll say one thing," said Richards. "I'd like to have Woodling. I think the guy could help us."

The Indians have a problem with both Woodling and Minnie Minoso playing left field and apparently unable to play anywhere else. Woodling can't throw well enough to play right field steadily and Minnie so far has been disappointing in right.

Carolan's Meets Plumbers; Esso Seeks Cage Title

Carolan's Tavern and Yoder's Plumbers tangle tonight at 9 o'clock on the Carver gym to determine the opponent for Hafer House Furniture in the finals of the Men's Division of the City Rec Basketball League.

Lovers' Leap Esso can take the High School Division playoff championship tonight if scoring a sweep over Centre Street Methodist when they clash at 8 o'clock on the Carver floor.

The Esso quint took the opener in the best-of-three series last night, 38-36, by rallying in the last quarter. Centre Street had moved on top, 31-26, going into the final stanza but was held to only five points to drop the two-point decision.

Gary Wolford paced the winners with 16 points while Ernie Schramm hooped 13 for the Methodist. Both clubs made 13 goals with Esso hooping 12 of 17 fouls to 10 of 15 for the losers.

Kell Becomes Sportscaster

NEW YORK (AP)—George Kell, formerly with the Baltimore Orioles and an American League all-star third baseman, will become a sportscaster for CBS April 5.

The 35-year-old Kell retired from baseball while on the Baltimore roster last January. He also played for the Detroit Tigers, Philadelphia, Boston and Chicago.

During his 15-year career, he compiled a .306 lifetime batting average.

Kell will conduct a 10-minute interview show preceding the network's Saturday game-of-the-week telecasts.

"I'm anxious to get started," said Kell, "it will give me a chance to keep in close touch with baseball and it'll be a sort of reunion in a lot of ways."

Ernie Banks Away To Fast Batting Start

MESA, Ariz. (AP)—Amazing Ernie Banks, Chicago Cubs' slugging shortstop, already has smashed nine home runs for his fastest spring start ever.

He has more homers this spring than any other major leaguer.

Notoriously slow in getting under way, Banks didn't hit high gear until midsummer last year, but he still banged 43 homers, just one back of the National League leader Hank Aaron.

He came to the Cubs camp here intent on getting off faster than he has in the past. He listened carefully to the Cubs' special batting coach Rogers Hornsby.

"In the past I've had a tendency to swing at bad balls early in the season," Ernie explained. "I am working with Hornsby to determine the strike zone better. And I'm working to hit more to right field when pitchers throw away from my power. I've popped up a lot in the past trying to pull pitches on the outside of the plate to the left."

He's hitting at a .386 clip with 22 hits in 57 times at bat including the nine homers, a triple and five doubles."

Teammate Dale Long overshadowed him yesterday with three home runs as the Cubs beat the San Francisco Giants 15-4, but Ernie collected one homer, a double and a single.

True Davis Jr., named his 1958 Kentucky Derby candidate, Saint Joseph, for his home town in Missouri.

Handley High May Pull Out CVA League

A difference in the age limits for athletes may cause the withdrawal of Handley High School from the Cumberland Valley Athletic League it was learned at the spring dinner meeting of the circuit yesterday at the Parkview Inn, Berkeley Springs.

Garland L. Quarles, principal of the Winchester, Va., school, sent a letter to the league and it was revealed yesterday. In Virginia an athlete is still eligible for the entire term if he reaches the age of 19 at the start of the term. The rule differs with those of West Virginia and Maryland.

In Maryland a boy who becomes 18 before September 1 cannot participate in sports that year. However, if he turns 18 during a particular season, such as football, he is allowed to finish out that sport—then is ineligible. Under West Virginia rules, the eligibility of any high school student ceases at midnight preceding his 19th birthday, except that a student shall be eligible for all sports during the school year in which his 19th birthday occurs.

The other schools in the CVAL are requesting Handley High to reconsider its action. It was pointed out that there has been no objection filed in regard to the Virginia age limit and it is hoped the Judges will remain in the league. They participate in the track and football setup.

At yesterday's session, Carl R. Beer, principal of South Hagerstown High School, was elected president of the league, succeeding Victor D. Heisey, who had served for the past two years. Stephen A. Lerda, principal of Westminster High School, is the new vice president and W. Ardell Haines, principal of Allegany High School, was re-elected secretary-treasurer. Dr. Haines, William Faherty, athletic director, and Coach Chester Payne represented Allegany at the meeting.

Herb Ruby, of Westminster High School, was named chairman of a committee that will have charge of the selection of all conference teams in basketball and football.

Fort Hill High School was presented the league trophy for winning the 1957-58 basketball championship but Coach John J. Cavanaugh of the Sentinels was unable to attend because he was at Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, undergoing a checkup for an ear infection. Fort Hill was represented by Victor D. Heisey, principal, and William P. Hahn, football coach.

Gary Shook, of Allegany High School, was recognized as the league's individual scoring champion for the 1957-58 season and it was announced Fort Hill will play host to the third annual track and field meet on May 17. C. V. Burns, of the Cumberland News, was named official statistician of the league.

Five Teams Join County Softball Loop

Five teams, including Fossilville, Bedford County, Pa., enrolled for the County Softball League campaign at a meeting last night at Corriganville.

The four other teams, all holdovers, are Stringtown, Corriganville, Maple Inn of Wellersburg and Burkey's. Bill Crawford represented Fossilville; Amos See, Stringtown; Gerald "Boots" Raygor, Corriganville and Charles "Junie" Boyer, Burkey's.

Other teams interested in joining the league are urged to attend the next meeting, Tuesday, April 8, 7:30 p. m., at Corriganville, or contact president Charles "Whip" Kreitzburg at the Wilson Hardware Company.

Big Klu To Make First Start With Pirate Regulars Today

By The Associated Press

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Chicago White Sox outfielder Al Smith was back in uniform yesterday after a four-week layoff because of an ankle injury.

Smith, obtained in a trade with Cleveland last winter, took batting practice during a two-hour workout.

"It doesn't bother me when I swing," said Smith referring to his ankle. "But I can still feel a tender spot."

Smith is counted on as the White Sox regular left fielder. He and Early Wynn came to the Sox in a trade which sent outfielder Minnie Minoso and infielder Fred Hatfield to Cleveland.

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—John McHale, Detroit Tiger general manager, has his own explanation for the six homers hit in the Bengals' 8-6 loss to Kansas City yesterday.

Gazing out over Henley Field, McHale said: "This diamond must slant toward left field."

Training camp pitchers, used to being ahead in pre-season games, were peppered with round-trippers by Tigers Billy Martin, Frank Bolling and Charley Lau, and by Athletics' Joe DeMaestri, Hector Lopez and Bob Cerv.

TAMPA, Fla (AP)—The Cincinnati Redlegs made a flock of winter trades for pitchers and other needed talent, but Manager Birdie Tebbetts says the club is interested in further deals.

He told newsmen yesterday, "sure, we're rich with catchers and there are four or five clubs in the National League who don't have any catching to speak of. We haven't moved. They know our address in case they want to come up with the right deal."

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — Big Ted Kluszewski, Pittsburgh Pirates first baseman who has been bothered with a sore back, is slated to make his first exhibition game appearance of the season here today against the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Manager Danny Murtaugh of the Pirates said he'll use a lineup with which he hopes to open the regular season. Murtaugh listed it this way:

Kluszewski 1b, Gene Baker 2b, Dick Groat ss, Frank Thomas 3b, Bob Skinner lf, Bill Virdon cf, Roberto Clemente rf and Hank Foiles c.

Richard Paces Canadiens' Ice Playoff Victory

By International News Service

Maurice Richard, who ought to be washed up at the age of 36, is still the incomparable rocket of the National Hockey League.

The fabulous right wing scored twice in the first four minutes to lead the Canadiens to an 8-to-1 win over Detroit before a crowd of 13,908 at the Montreal Forum last night.

New York took an identical 1-0 lead in its best-of-seven series by beating the Boston Bruins, 5 to 3, at Madison Square Garden before 15,925 fans.

Montreal led Detroit, 4 to 0, before the game was nine minutes old. Phil Goyette added three goals later and Johnnie Wilson saved the Red Wings from a shutout.

The first goal for Richard, who also had two assists, was the 1,000th poinnt of the star's 16-year career.

Dave Creighty, a former Bruin, scored two key goals for the Rangers and goalie Gump Worsley made many timely saves for the New Yorkers.

However, the Rangers were dealt a serious blow when center and captain Red Sullivan suffered a triple fracture of the jaw in a collision with Boston's Bronco Horvath. He will miss the rest of the playoffs.

Watts Within Game Of PE League Lead

Watts moved to within one game of first place in the Potomac Edison Mixed Bowling League by shutting out Amps while the front-running Ohms were dropping one of three to Cycles.

Other leaders were Mary Jane Frye, 152-395, Kenny Koser, 168 and Ed Meader 452, Ohms; Jeanora Hare, 122, and Elaine Miller, 327, Cycles; Bernice Growden, 137-345 and Meyvin Emerick, 162-376, Amps, and Ruth Snyder, 108-283 and Hayden Phillips, 180-470, Watts. Smallest Monkeys

Smallest of the monkeys are the marmosets found in South and Central America, which never are larger than half-grown kittens or squirrels.

Dominick Zanni, San Francisco Giant rookie pitcher, pitched a no-hitter for Sioux City of the Western League in 1954.

Pair Women's Games Carded

Two more games are listed in the Women's Rec Association Basketball Tournament today with Ursuline facing Sports Shoppe at 7 p. m. and McDade's Market facing Ridgeley in the opener at 6 o'clock on the Carver court.

Defending-champion VFW won its first-round game in the opener last night by whipping Wilson Hardware, 49-33; Greene Street Esso won over Hyndman, 71-33, and Sports Shoppe trimmed Valentine's, 48-22.

The tall and experienced Vets proved too much for Wilson's as the combination of Rose Bowers and Mae Smith clicked for the winners. Kathy Mullaney also worked well from the outside against the much-shorter Wilson guards. Mullaney hooped 13 goals and a pair of free throws for 28 points. Darr led the losers with 14 markers.

Fast-breaking by Greene Street eliminated Hyndman while Annabelle Leatherman also tossed in several shots from around the 20-foot mark. Cook and Nancy Belt also gave plenty of shooting help, the latter scoring 21 points. Wilma Redinger, high scorer of undefeated Fort Hill this year, was tops for the winners with 30 tallies. Wanda Shaffer caged 13 for Hyndman.

Valentine's had difficulty in breaking through the Sports Shoppe team's guards and could not cope with the latter sextet's experience. Pat Thompson dumped in 18 points and Cora Leatherman and Jeanie Hale garnered 15 each for the winners. Armentrout sparked Valentine's with 12.

Liquor Dux Clubs Fight For Second

Racey & Lynn pulled within a game of second place in the South End Liquor Dealers Bowling League by turning back runnerup Wonder Bar, 2-1, at the Capital. King's Tavern whipped Nines Restaurant by the same score and Spa Bar, making a runaway of the race, blanked Frank's Tavern in other matches.

Tom McGeady and Cecil Grimes each whipped up 556 sets to pace the Spa attack, McGeady also posting a 216 game.

Other top bombers were George Schupfer, 186 and Buck Gephart, 509, Frank's; Jim Rice, 202 and Tom Dentinger, 514, Racey & Lynn; Rich Clay, 181—487, Wonder Bar; Lefty Shadwell, 210—465, King's, and Dick Bittner, 171—409, Nines. Standings:

Champion Terps, Tar Heels Grab ACC Scoring Honors

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP)—Champion Maryland and runnerup North Carolina won team scoring honors in the Atlantic Coast Conference during a 1957-58 season which saw ACC scoring take an 8 per cent turnback to the days of low-scoring round-ball activity.

Final ACC Service Bureau figures show team scoring within the league down 5.6 points a game from 1956-57. North Carolina's winning average of 71.8 points a game is a whopping 10.4 points per contest under the 82.2 points South Carolina averaged last season to take top laurels.

Terps' Defense Improves

Defense against scoring is likewise down over a year ago. Overall, ACC teams held the opposition to 4.7 points a game less than last season, a defensive improvement of 7 per cent. Maryland, the perennial team defensive king, had an average yield of only 57.6 points this past season, an improvement of 3.9 points a game over the Terps' winning average of 1956-57.

In 1956-57, ACC teams averaged 73.9 points a game to the opposition's 71.6 This past season they averaged 68.3 points to the opposition's 66.9.

North Carolina State and Virginia won shooting honors for the year in the ACC. The Wolfpack averaged 43.1 per cent from the floor and Virginia 73.2 per cent from the foul line.

State Top Rebounder

N. C. State also led in team rebounding, averaging 46.4 recoveries a game, and in personal foul avoidance, averaging only 18.4 infractions per contest. Wake Forest had the highest per-game foul average, 19.5 a game.

Field goal shots taken per game are down only from 63.3 to 61.5 per game. Free throw opportunities are down only 30.1 to 27.4. ACC teams averaged only 2.3 fewer points from the foul line and 3.3 from the floor.

Overall, ACC field goal shooting was down from 41.7 per cent to 40.3 per cent, and foul line accuracy was off 70.1 per cent to 68.6 per cent. Personal fouls committed per game showed an increase of 18.8 to 18.0 over last season.

Meantime, North Carolina's Pete Brennan is crowned individual scoring champion with a final average of 21.3 points a game. He is also the top rebounder with 11.7 recoveries a game.

Dumont Easter Parade Plans Buck Tradition

By JACK O'BRIAN

NEW YORK — (INS) — Girls: Dorothy Kilgallen's new hair color is called "sable." . . .

Andy Williams will replace Pat Boone for the summer on ABC-TV . . .

Andy turned down the Hit Parade last year, making him the smartest boy singer in TV . . .

Nat Hiken's "The Magnificent Montague" TV series has an alternate Sunday night sponsor ready to take over "The $64,000 Challenge" time if the other sponsor will go along . . .

Wherever Montague goes, it's fairly certain the Challenge won't be renewed in its present format or time slot . . .

Kraft Theatre will cut "All The King's Men" (Pulitzer prize novel, academy award movie) into two parts May 7 and 14 . . .

For the first time, Walter Brennan's "Real McCoys" out-Trendexed Jack Benny's "Shower of Stars" . . .

It consistently has sunk 'Dragnet" and "Climax" but the Benny musicale was considered too big to beat; until now, of course . . .

Benny Goodman's "Swing Into Spring" spec April 9 has the old Goodman arrangements updated by Ralph Burns, and the sample we've heard really swings, and not in the museum style of most 20-year-old orchestrations.

For some time TV stations have grown wary of airing Easter parades because their blatant commercialism, outright cynicism, free plugs and a general air of vulgarity ruined everything.

Dumont this Easter will try again, hoping to keep the moods and manners decent and reverent . . .

Phyllis Battelle and husband Art Van Horn will co-host, and we must say they'll have their work cut out.

Dumont will dash in where NBC, CBS and other TV folks frankly have feared to tread on reverent traditions. In a hotel Gotham Easter brunch, the station has planned interviews with George Jessel, the cast of "Oh, Captain," Wendy Barrie, Hildegarde, Edward Mulhare, Grover Whalen, Sammy Kaye, Evelyn Knight and others, and we wish them luck and a regard for the holy day . . .

The Easter parades were just too much and too shallow in past years and everyone in time forgot Easter was one of Christianity's holiest days.

Finally plunging necklines, starlets chasing publicity and the worst reckless elements injected themselves so inexorably that networks and responsible independent stations cured the condition with surgery—just sliced them off the air.

GABLE REHEARSES FOR OSCAR SHOW — Clark Gable, an "Oscar" winner himself 23 years ago, walks on the stage during rehearsals for this year's Academy Awards show tonight at Pantages Theatre in Hollywood. He is one of numerous stars who will participate in the presentations and entertainment, including Fred Astaire, (behind Gable), Dana Wynter (beside Astaire), and Rock Hudson (right background). Gable won his "Oscar" for "It Happened One Night." (AP Photofax)

Beaver Pelt Seal Deadline March 31

CHARLESTON (AP) — The Conservation Department has announced that applications for seals for beaver pelts must be made direct to the conservation commission headquarters here.

The anticipated deadline for sealing beaver pelts is March 31, the agency added, with the $1 seals required for any beaver pelt that is sold in the state.

If both the president and vice president of the United States should die, the Speaker of the House of Representatives would become president, unless he were ineligible, in which event the president pro tempore of the Senate would assume the post.

CBS To Give Dickens' "Tale Of Two Cities"

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — A television adaptation of Charles Dickens' "A Tale of Two Cities" is the ambitious undertaking of Show of the Month (CBS-TV) tomorrow evening.

Its large cast will include Rosemary Harris, Gracie Fields, Eric Portman, Agnes Moorehead, Walter Fitzgerald, James Donald and Denholm Elliott, Robert Mulligan is the director.

Because "A Tale of Two Cities" is required reading in high schools almost everywhere, just about everybody has read it and vaguely remembers that it concerns a group of English and French people in the French Revolution. You probably remember Sidney Carton going to the guillotine with his speech: "It is a far, far better thing than I do than I have ever done. . . ."

But how much of the story do you remember?

To retell it now probably would spoil the adaptation made by Michael Dyne for the David Susskind TV production. The novel is so large in scope and diffuse in scene and character that it sounds lake an awesome task to adapt for a 90-minute television drama.

"When I reread the novel again," Dyne said, "I thought we needed at least 2½ hours. The difficulty was that everybody has a favorite scene and each would say 'But you can't leave out that.' "

Dyne, a 39-year-old Englishman who has written 70 plays for American television, found that the wisest course was to cut the large subplot involving Jerry Crunshaw. So, presumably, we shall see the story of Sydney Carton, who loved Lucie Manette, and Lucie, who in turn loved Charles Darnay, the young man who looked like Carton.

"The London scenes are heavily cut," Dyne said. "We're cutting the burning of the chateau in Paris. But we are doing the storming of the Bastille—with 50 people, not 5,000."

Will a head actually roll from the guillotine?

"The present plan is that there will be a head dripping with raspberry jam. But it will be seen in shadow — and won't cause any rumpus like that 'Macbeth' head on television a few years ago. Usually I'm against that sort of thing, but it's essential in this case in order to portray the horror of the Revolution."

650 Sets Of Tags Sold At Court House

Virtually all offices at the Court House were closed yesterday in observance of Maryland Day but the office of Tax Collector J. Wallace Close was busy with the sale of new Maryland automobile license tags.

More than 650 sets were sold yesterday, bringing to more than 12,000 the number sold here since late February. Next Monday at midnight is the deadline for use of the old Maryland tags on private automobiles. About 18,000 sets were sold by the first of April last year.

122 Register As New Voters

The Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors reports 122 new voters have registered in March.

Through last Saturday, the 122 March registrants included 67 Republicans (35 men and 32 women) and 65 Democrats (37 men and 28 women). Although the office was closed yesterday, the Maryland Day holiday, it normally is open from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 9 a.m. until noon on Saturday.

Persons who will have reached their 21st birthday on or before November 4 and will have lived one year in Maryland by then may register now and vote in the May 20 primary election. The registration deadline before the primary election is Saturday, April 19.

Beginning Friday, Miss Bessie R. Baird, Republican, and John J. Zapf, Democrat, deputy registrars, will begin touring the county signing up prospective new voters who cannot come to the Court House. They will sit at the McCoole Fire Hall from 2 until 5 p.m. Friday and at the Devon Club library in Luke from 6 until 9 p.m.

The tour will continue until the April 19 deadline.

Henderson To Head County Youth Group

The Allegany County Youth Commission last night elected officers at a meeting in Central YMCA.

Privileges Abused, Keegan Reports

Parking privileges are being abused on Park Street between Harrison Street and Central Avenue, Police Commissioner William V. Keegan said today.

He said police have received complaints that cars have been parked on red lines in that stretch for as long as six days.

He urged cooperation by the public so people who live in the area can get to the fronts of their homes.

Card of Thanks

The family of John Earl "Oakie" Kerr wishes to express their sincere appreciation to the Frostburg Fire Department for their speedy and life-saving procedures; to the Red Cross for aiding Elner Powers transportation from England; to the churches of all faiths for their prayers and wunderful thoughts; to the people in the vicinity of the accident who aided by supplying blankets and assistance when it was needed, and to all the friends for their prayers and gestures that abetted us during our trouble. We thank you sincerely and beg God's blessing on each and everyone.

We wish to express our sincere thanks to the members of the family, friends and neighbors and members of Eagles Aerie 245 for their kind expressions of sympathy. We especially wish to thank Rev. Bruce K. Price, Stein's Funeral Home for their assistance, the pallbearers and those who sent flowers and donated cars for the late Frank Cecil.

His daughter: Audrey Goodman, and Susan Bedea

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our father, Harvey Reckley, who died 16 years ago March 26, 1942.

Sometimes it's hard to understand
Why some things have to be,
But in His wisdom God has planned
Beyond our powers to see.
Sadly missed by:

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I find myself full of hate for my own father. He put my mother away in a state mental institution and all her relatives say she could have stayed home and recovered with proper love and care if only he would have given it to her. She died in the mental institution and my father has remarried, but now I can't even shake his hand without feeling soiled. Is this wrong? A SON.

DEAR SON: The "relatives" could be very much mistaken. Your mother was not "put away" in a mental institution without the recommendation of several competent examining doctors. If you want to check the medical facts, ask your family doctor to get them for you.

DEAR ABBY: A friend of mine sold me her set of rings when she separated from her husband. I have worn them about two months and have gotten very attached to them. Now my friend and her husband got back together again and she wants her rings back. She says her husband would be very mad if he knew she had sold them to me. Should I sell them back to her or tell her to go fly a kite? GYPPED.

DEAR GYPPED: Your friend does not deserve to have the set of rings back—but under the circumstances you would be wise to sell them back to her.

DEAR ABBY: We met at the home of a mutual friend. We were immediately attracted to each other and he asked me to dinner Saturday night. An hour before he was to pick me up he telephoned, saying he was ill and asked me could he send a friend instead to take me to dinner with his compliments so I wouldn't waste the evening. I was so furious I told him no. I haven't heard from him since. My friends at the office say I made a mistake. Did I? EMILY.

DEAR EMILY: Any man who was considerate enough to arrange a substitute date deserved better treatment than you gave him. You made a boo boo.

DEAR ABBY: One of the girls in our office is going to have a baby. She is married so there is nothing wrong with that, but she had some Xrays taken and she was showing them all over the office. I was shocked speechless. Where is this young woman's pride, modesty and common sense, I ask you? UPSET.

DEAR UPSET: The young woman was obviously so thrilled about her coming baby that she wanted to show it to everyone in black and white. It wasn't in the best taste, but hardly an incident to become upset over.

CONFIDENTIAL to "Clean As a Whistle:" You should be—you were taken to the cleaners!

Your Horoscope

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is according to the stars.

For Thursday, March 27, 1958

MARCH 21 to APRIL 20 (Aries)—Your Mars' position admonishes against emotionalism and any harmful indulgences. Today has many advantages for mental alertness, for hard work and prudent, economical management generally.

APRIL 21 to MAY 21 (Taurus)—Very encouraging rays for most worthwhile activities, new interests and usual daily affairs. However, artistic matters, finesse, are less to the fore, so be extra patient with all.

MAY 22 to JUNE 21 (Gemini)—Grand day for your intuition and creativeness. New, valuable ideas, promptions, improvements are in your line and sponsored. Fine results for your best efforts.

JUNE 22 to JULY 23 (Cancer)—Should be happy, soundly productive day, especially if you are in good humor and form. Do not let trifling matters or petulant people rub you the wrong way. Thank God for blessings.

JULY 24 to AUGUST 23 (Leo)—You may find ineffectiveness a tendency but Saturn, Mercury and other planets indicate generous, helpful assets, too, so be up and doing; don't let others get ahead of you through your laxness.

AUGUST 24 to SEPTEMBER 23 (Virgo)—Your best day for end of this month. Make the most of opportunities and valuable suggestions. Be cooperative with those succeeding in things in which you are interested, talented.

SEPTEMBER 24 to OCTOBER 23 (Libra)—Heed advice of Taurus, this day similar. Be ambitious without straining or overriding others' wishes; try new ideas, discoveries; make improvements in your own interests, also elsewhere.

OCTOBER 24 to NOVEMBER 22 (Scorpio)—Fine Saturn aspect but not so Mars. An interesting setup. Saturn favors hard work, difficult situations, handling unruly propositions. Mars stresses patience, self-control.

NOVEMBER 23 to DECEMBER 21 (Sagittarius)—Your Jupiter very favorable. It should be a vibrant, interesting as well as profitable period. Help from all sides if you carry on graciously and gratefully. Be genial, cooperative.

DECEMBER 22 to JANUARY 20 (Capricorn)—Should be full, beneficial, even gainful day if you manage as you so well can. Cut hindering tactics, red tape and with your usual efficiency and industriousness tackle real demands.

JANUARY 21 to FEBRUARY 19 (Aquarius) — Uranus' position urges steadiness of purpose and a productive system to handle day's problems as well as easy and familiar tasks. Fine opportunities if you seek them. Be ambitious.

FEBRUARY 20 to MARCH 20 (Pisces)—You, too, have advantages, fresh avenues to achieve new successes. Investigate valuable discoveries and perhaps work with them. Be alert to these blessings. Show initiative, unction, think!

YOU BORN TODAY are talented, perhaps at times too fiery in temperament. Be careful choosing business associates that you will have best environment. Develop wisely your splendid God-given attributes, control emotionalism. We all are wiser, more capable when functioning under calm reasoning. You are brave, have great energy, probably like adventure, outdoor activities. Are usually ingenius. Do not permit combativeness, impatience, rashness. Seek God's help always and enjoy the contentment of home life; remain cheerful. Birthdate of Wilhelm Konrad Roetgen, scientist, discoverer of X-ray.

Man-Sized Play Sets Two Tricks

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

East's jump to three diamonds was intended to crowd the bidding and it did exactly that. South did not want to bid as much as three hearts but he was not going to be shut out when he had such a good suit.

West's four club bid was also a push and no one can criticize North's bid of game. Actually the contract was a most reasonable one and the only thing that beat it was the spade singleton.

West opened his ace of spades. He knew that ruffs were the only way to beat the contract. West continued with the three of diamonds and East made the sort of play that separates the men from the boys.

He played the queen of diamonds. When it held the trick he gave his partner a spade ruff and got in with the ace of diamonds to give a second ruff and set the hand two tricks instead of one.

Opening lead—♠ A

East's play involved a slight risk. There was some chance that West would not hold the king of diamonds. However, East was not risking the game. If West did not hold the diamond king the hand would not be set. East was only risking an overtrick or so against an almost certain extra 50 point penalty.

Q—The bidding has been:

You, South, hold:

What do you do?

A—Pass. Two no-trump is slightly too much of a gamble, since your heart strength is not likely to produce many tricks and you only have 11 points.

TODAY'S QUESTION

West bids two hearts and your partner and East pass. What do you do now?

Army Operates Freight Plan In Arctic Area

NEW YORK (INS)—The Army Transportation Corps is operating a trackless freight train high above the Arctic Circle which is capable of carrying nearly 100,000 pounds of military supplies across the deep snows.

Steelways, official publication of American Iron and Steel Institute, says there are only three of these trackless steel trains in existence. One serves as a cross-country freighter in Alaska and the other is used for desert haulage by R. G. LeTourneau, Inc., Longwood, Texas, which manufactures the vehicles.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Increase Seen In U. S. Work

WASHINGTON — (INS) — A Labor Department official forecast today that the nation's work force will increase about 10,500,000 persons by 1965—most of them women and older and younger persons.

Commissioner of Labor Statistics Ewan Clague told President Eisenhower's conference of occupational safety that the change in the labor force will create new safety problems, since new workers are more accident prone and there will be a large turnover.

He said that more than eight million of the labor force increase will consist of women 35 years of age and older, and youngsters between the ages of 14 and 24.

Clague said advance calculations point to a drop of 700,000 by 1965 in men employes of the 25 to 34 age group, and an increase of about a million in men 55 years of age and over.

FBI Assists In Search For BankGunman

BALTIMORE (AP) — FBI agents joined police today in the search for the lone gunman who robbed a branch savings bank of almost $6,500 in cash and more than $5,200 in negotiable savings stamps.

The masked man entered the Loch Raven branch of the Savings Bank of Baltimore yesterday. Waving a Luger pistol, he vaulted the counter and took money from several tellers' cages and a cash drawer in the bank's vault.

He hurried out of the bank and sped away in a 1956 model car, which was found later in an alley nearby.

The Maryland Casualty Co. offered a $1,000 reward for the capture of the well-dressed gunman.

FBI agents said the stolen stamps carried no individual identifying marks and could be turned in for cash at institutions across the nation which sell the same type of stamps.

Another holdup was thwarted last night when the 71-year-old president of a southwest Baltimore savings and loan association forced two young bandits to flee.

Charles Wirt, president of the Washington Park Building and Loan Assn., was unarmed when he chased the two men, one of them armed with an automatic, from the building.

Six-Weeks Tax Holiday Planned

OTTAWA — (INS) — Liberal Party leader Lester (Mike) Pearson has counterattacked against the critics of his proposal to grant a six-weeks tax holiday in Canada.

Pearson, campaigning to beat the Conservative Party in next Monday's parliamentary election, declared yesterday that the plan is "good business and good economics."

The Liberals propose a six-weeks holiday for the great majority of income tax payers this summer to boost consumer spending and restore languishing business.

During the early stages of the campaign Pearson called for a 25 per cent tax cut on the first $3,000 of taxable income. The reduction plan now has been expanded to make it retroactive to last January 1.

U. S. Route 40 WorkPlanned Across Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — One of these days you will be able to drive non - stop across central Ohio and forget about any traffic snarls between Indiana and West Virginia, a distance of 227 miles.

That day still is more than 10 years away. But the Ohio Department of Highways says it is coming, thanks to the huge interstate highway construction program.

Sections of the road — now known as U. S. 40 but due to be changed to Interstate 70 when completed — now are being brought to superhighway standards. Project are rapidly nearing completion in Licking County, near Dayton and Springfield and near St. Clairsville in Belmont County.

And during the next few years men and their machines will work on a number of other sections. The federal government is paying 90 per cent of the cost of the work, and that's why it can be done.

When work now under way is completed, all but 75 miles of the route in rural areas will be a four lane highway. By 1969 all the work will be done, accoring to the department's present plans.

Accidents Climb In Labor Force

WASHINGTON (INS) — Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell said today that only one-fifth of the young people in the U.S. can be promised an accident free working life.

Speaking before the president's conference on occupational safety, the secretary further added that only 23 of 100 boys and girls 14-19 years of age, now entering the labor force, will complete their working lives without a disabling work injury.

Mitchell estimated a U. S. population in 1965 of more than 193 million with a labor force at 80 million.

He said the 14,200 occupational deaths and 1,930,000 injuries that occurred in 1957 reflected a level which has prevailed in recent years in the face of rising employment and the exposure of more workers to possible injuries.

Records Show Refunds Paid

BALTIMORE (AP)—Comptroller J. Millard Tawes said today many Maryland taxpayers are claiming they didn't receive their 1956 tax refunds, although nearly all of them did.

He said the Income Tax Division of the comptroller's office in Annapolis is receiving the claims in letters and notes attached to 1957 State returns.

In nearly every instance, he said, the refund was paid and the cancelled check is in the division files.

Tawes said the time consumed in answering these letters has delayed the processing of 1957 tax returns. He called on taxpayers to examine their records more closely before making such inquiries.

A spokesman for Mahoney said he had received a statement of support signed by officers of unions representing construction drivers, operating engineers and heavy construction laborers.

"We are happy that our relations with you, as a union shop paving contractor, have been cordial and constructive," said the statement attributed to the union officials. "Your public endorsedorsements of labor and labor's aims in current and past campaigns merit, we think, the support of labor-minded voters."

Headquarters for the "harmony" ticket, which includes Louis L. Goldstein for comptroller and Atty. Gen. C. Ferdinand Sybert for reelection as well as Tawes and D'Alesandro, made new claims of support for all four.

Endorsement came, the announcement said, from 22 Democratic clubs in Baltimore's Sixth Legislative District.

Clarence D. Long, another of seven candidates for Democratic nomination for the U. S. Senate, reiterated his proposal to scrap the farm price support system over a five-year period.

Bowen said he stopped the cab and held the man until a real policeman came.

Regulations Cited In Tobacco Recovery

Two Charged In Robbery

GRAFTON, W. Va. (AP) — Two men charged with stealing the $600 savings from an elderly invalid are being held in Taylor County jail here to await action of the grand jury April 14.

Magistrate W. C. Lawson said yesterday that Everett Eugene DeCosta, 25, and Vance P. Mayle, 18, waived preliminary hearing.

The men, who are charged with robbery with assault, were held in $5,000 bond each.

Police Chief Robert DeBarr said that more than $500 of the money belonging to H. McWilliams, about 70, was recovered when the two men were arrested. McWilliams was struck with his own cane in a scuffle when the money was taken from him at his home, DeBarr added.
